URGE NAVAL HOLIDAY FOR TEN-YEAR TERM

Substantial Agreement on Armament Reduction Early in Session Hoped For.

Washington.—The government of the United States has laid its cards on the table face up.

In the first public session Secretary Hughes, head of the American delegation, surprised every body by announcing the American proposal for the limitation of armaments. These principles are:

1. That all capital ship building programs, either actual or projected should be abandoned.

2. That further reduction should be made through the scrapping of certain older ships.

3. That in general regard should be had to the existing naval strength of the powers concerned.

4. That the capital ship tonnage should be used as a measurement of strength for navies and a proportionate allowance of auxiliary combatant craft presented.

Then followed technical details of the building programs of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, with suggestions as to exactly what vessels should be scrapped.

It was a bold and unexpected stroke on the part of the American delegation and fairly took the breath away from the visiting delegates who have been accustomed to secret conference before anything so concrete is made known.

BERLIN.—Its locations of the American-German peace treaty were exchanged here at the Foreign Office between Ellis Loring Dresel, the American Commissioner, and Dr Karl Wirth, Chancellor and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

BOSTON.—It is reported that Louis K. Liggett is about to liquidate all of his obligations in full, with interest at 6 per cent, and to ask for the discharge of his trustees.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Latest Gleanings From All Over the State

THINGS SEEN AND HEARD

Rockville.—E. L. LeCompte, State Game Warden, has appointed the following deputy wardens for this county: Thomas H. Bodine, Elmo M. Strickland, Jesse Bright, R. T. Butler, James E. Shoemaker, Wilbur S. Doty, Leonard A. Shoemaker and Clarence E. Anders.

Elkton.—The season for upland game opened in Cecil county and continues until January 1, inclusive. Game is reported more plentiful in every part of the State than for a number of years, due, it is claimed, to the restocking done by the State Conservation Commission, the money being derived from hunters' licenses.

Hagerstown.—The City Council, at a recent meeting, awarded the contract for the disposal of garbage here to the Oakrol Corporation, which concern will erect a plant here on land owned by the city. The garbage will be reduced to powder by the concern and mixed with anthracite coal dust. The coal will then be placed on sale.

Cambridge.—Frank H. Phillips, for 12 years deputy county treasurer of Dorchester county, died at Linkwood. He was 73 years old. He was for many years a farmer. He leaves two sons, Julian Phillips, business manager of Goldey College, Wilmington, Del., and William T. Phillips, a farmer of Linkwood.

Frederick.—Samuel Gover, 62 years old, Walkersville, was struck by an automobile driven by Marshall Greene, Lewistown, and fatally injured. He attempted to cross the street in front of his home when two cars, going in opposite directions, came along. In avoiding one machine he was struck and dragged some distance by the other. He was picked up unconscious and died without regaining consciousness.

Oxford.—Riding on a steamboat was too much for a calf passenger on the Talbot the other night and went to its head. It broke its halter and plunged for a chilly swim in the Tred Avon. The animal was followed by white seine of the crew put out to the rescue in a boat. The calf struck out for Bengies and the steamer's searchlight was brought into play. In the end, however, the calf was restored to his halter.

Cumberland.—The country residence of Lee Chaney, real estate dealer, this city, located on Williams road, eight miles from this city, was destroyed by fire. The loss is $8,000. Mrs. Chaney, her son, P. L. Chaney, and daughter, Miss Arbutus Chaney, barely escaped with their lives. The daughter was aroused by the heat and smoke in her room. The fire is thought to have originated from a spark from the smokehouse, where hams were being cured. The house was of frame, eight rooms, and was built about 75 years ago. The members of the family lost all their clothing and sums of money. Mr. Chaney was in Cumberland at the time making arrangements for the family to move into their winter home on Baltimore avenue. He says family heirlooms 200 years old, including colonial furniture and silver plate, were destroyed.

Crisfield.—With more than 200 appeals filed with the State Tax Commission protesting against the reassessment of property, officials of the Tax Commission have agreed to come here November 28 to begin the hearing in the tax assessment appeals which have been made to the commission by property owners in Crisfield. In July of last year when the Mayor and City Council increased the taxable basis from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000, practically doubling the taxable valuation of all property in the city, protest was made by taxpayers who refused to pay taxes into the city treasury. Since that time the matter has been in litigation and the city without the use of tax money amounting to a considerable sum. It is rumored that it is the intention of the town authorities to bring suit on all unpaid taxes and if not paid the property will be sold. Some time ago this action was threatened and much interest has been created and speculation is rampant as to just what steps the town authorities will take to enforce payment. The municipality will be represented by Joshua W. Miles, of Princess Anne, when the commission sits in Crisfield for the appeal hearing.

Hagerstown.—Dr. Webster Wade, postmaster at Boonsboro and a brother of Dr. J. Hubert Wade, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland, died very suddenly at his home at Boonsboro from heart failure, after an illness of 10 minutes.

Hagerstown. — Antique furniture, clothing and many valuable ornaments, valued at $1,000, stolen about a year ago from the summer home of former Comptroller of the Currency J. Skelton Williams, at Charmian, near here, were recovered by the local authorities.

Medical Extension Services Planned.

Annapolis.—Outlines of proposed medical extension activities being planned by the University of Maryland and designed to benefit the rural practitioner and rural population generally, were presented at College Park before the semi-annual meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, by Dr. M. C. Pincoffs, superintendent of the medical department of the University.

The plan as sketched follows in its salient features the extension work now being performed by other agencies of the University in the field of agriculture. Among the things it will provide are ways and means of keeping the rural practitioner more closely in touch with the latest developments in medical science. One of the methods suggested by Dr. Pincoffs in this connection will be the preparation and circulation of current articles from the leading medical magazines on specific subjects.

The plans as suggested by Dr. Pincoffs received the unanimous endorsement of the State faculty, several of the members speaking briefly of its practicability and need. The complete working out of the plan, however, it was explained, would require adequate financial support and time for its development.

The various lines of work being conducted by the University of Maryland, were explained by Dr. A. F. Woods, president of the institution who touched briefly on the needs of the various schools and the appropriations which will be asked of the next Legislature.

Grangers Assail Leach.

Pomona Grange, of Harford county, at a meeting at Jarrettsville, passed two sets of resolutions, one condemning State's Attorney Robert F. Leach, Jr., of Baltimore, for bringing officers of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association up for indictment and the other indorsing the action of President Harding in calling the International Conference on Limitation of Armaments.

The resolutions on the indictment assert that the charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade in marketing the milk of the Members of the Dairymen's Association are a direct blow leveled at the right of farmers to conduct their business co-operatively.

Many Foreign-Born Here.

There are 103,179 foreign-born persons in Maryland, of whom 52,016 have been naturalized, according to figures issued by the Bureau of Census in Washington. The report also shows that 9,700 foreigners have taken out their first papers in the State. In the State they are 37,249 aliens and 4,214 persons whose citizenship has not been reported.

City And County Come To Terms.

Differences between the city and Baltimore county over the replacement of roads and bridges that will be flooded after the completion of the greater dam at Loch Raven have been adjusted, it was announced, and the county's suit to enjoin the city from flooding the affected area will be withdrawn.

Blind Vets Form National Body.

A national association for blinded veterans of the war was launched at the Armistice Day dance given at the Hotel Belvedere by the Students' Association of Evergreen. The new organization will be known as the United States Blind Veterans' War Association. The fundamental idea is to keep intact not only the present body of students and graduates of Evergreen but to band together all those who were blinded when in the service of the country.

Drop In Rural Population.

With a decrease of 8.1 per cent. in the number of its rural inhabitants since 1910, Maryland ranks thirty-seventh among the 48 States in the percentage of rural to total population, according to figures compiled from the 1920 census. Forty per cent. is classified as rural.

Port Deposit.—The laying of concrete in the construction of the Port Deposit and Perryville State road was suspended until spring. The first section as far as St. Mark's Episcopal Church has been completed and opened to traffic. Grading is completed to the edge of Port Deposit. The officials of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church have strenuously objected to the construction of the road through that portion of the cemetery that contains dead bodies.

Frederick.—Vandals destroyed 30 apple trees a few nights ago in the orchard of Robert J. Ridgely, a school teacher and preacher living near Myersville. The trees were beginning to bear and were chopped off close to the ground. While there is no clue to those who cut down the trees, it is believed that it was the work of persons offended because Mr. Ridgely would not permit hunting on his property. Some months ago vandals nearly destroyed an orchard almost in the same neighborhood.

AMERICAN LEGION BACKS RED CROSS

Head of Soldier Organization Urges Fighting Men to Help Roll Call.

National Commander John G. Emery of the American Legion has issued the following proclamation to all members of that body in behalf of the Red Cross Roll Call, November 11-24:

"During the World War, the American Red Cross, in accordance with its Congressional charter, performed a herculean task in behalf of the soldiers and sailors of the American forces, and their families. Since the Armistice it has provided a very necessary service for veterans of the conflict, particularly the disabled, assisting these men to obtain the rights and benefits provided by the government. During recent months it has been especially designated by Col. C. R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau, to co-operate with the Bureau and the American Legion, in the "clean up campaign" designed to discover every disabled ex-service man entitled to governmental compensation, medical attention or vocational training.

"Beginning on Armistice Day, November 11, and continuing through Thanksgiving Day, November 24, the Red Cross, with which the American Legion since its organization has been in close contact and co-operation in matters affecting the welfare of veterans, will hold its annual membership Roll Call. It is peculiarly fitting and desirable that in every community where it is possible the Post of the American Legion should co-operate with the Chapter of the Red Cross in seeing to it that the membership campaign is successful in maintaining the strength of the Red Cross. The continuance of effective Red Cross service to veterans, which already involves an annual expense several millions in excess of receipts from the last Roll Call, depends to no small extent on public support of the society expressed in membership. Please make certain, therefore, that the members of your Post are all requested to co-operate so far as is in their power with the Red Cross in its task of enrolling members during the Roll Call period."

W. C. T. U.

A goodly number of members and friends attended the monthly meeting of the Berlin W. C. T. U., held Wednesday evening with Mrs. Fletcher Porter. Nearly thirty were present, although the president and several other regular attendants were kept away by illness. A new member who could not go, was received later, signing the pledge and paying dues. Mrs. E. P. Downing presided, conducting the devotional exercises and business meeting.

A telegram was ordered sent to our United States Senator, urging the immediate passage of the Supplemental Prohibition Bill today.

The annual donation to the W. C. T. U. Free Kindergarten, of Baltimore, was fixed for Thursday, December 8th. Vegetables for the noonday meal of soup and bread for the little ones are especially needed, also clothing and toys for small children. Please leave contributions at Hammond's shoe shop not later than early afternoon Wednesday, Dec. 7th, as the freight must be in the depot before 5.30 to leave next day.

A letter was read from the Tri-County Superintendent of Peace and Arbitration, emphasizing the importance of the department, enclosing literature, and urging that a local superintendent be elected, which was done, Mrs. Porter being chosen.

The social features that followed were especially fine, consisting of reading by Mrs. Brazier, "The Creed of the Bells," a recitation by Frances Esham, two beautiful solos by Mrs. Edward Coffin and two duets by her daughters, Dorothy and Katherine, closing with several numbers on the Victrola while the ice cream and cake were eaten.

Life-Insurance Companies Consider Women Smokers Poor Risks

The number of women who are refused life insurance policies on account of the fact that they have what is called a "smoker's heart" is startling, says an official of the British Mercantile Insurance Company, quoted in the New York Evening Sun. He said smoking has the same hold upon a woman as has a drug.

Taking into account the fact that nine out of every ten men smoke, whereas only five out of ten women are smokers, the proportion of women to men with "smoker's heart" is much greater than men, he added.

He said he had often known men who had applied for policies and were refused on account of their hearts to come back after six months cured.

"But I have never known a woman to be cured," he continued. "Tobacco is a drug and women use it like they would a drug.

A compulsory question now asked of English women who wish to take out life insurance policies is: "What is your daily habit regarding tobacco?" The official quoted said the answer often was that the woman would smoke more than forty cigarets a day and that he has known cases—and not isolated cases—where a woman smoker's sight first became impaired and gradually she became blind.

Manager F. M. Bartlett takes great pleasure in announcing the engagement of the Mattice Stock Co. at the Globe Theatre, Berlin, for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

This popular company has a host of friends in Berlin who, no doubt, will be delighted to learn of their return. For the season an entirely new repertoire of plays has been secured with new and appropriate scenery for each and every play.

The play selected for the opening performance, Monday night, is the three-act comedy drama entitled "The Balloon Girl." This delightful little comedy deals with the life of a pretty young balloonist. She is in the employ of a circus, and while making one of her flights, descends on the minister's house, in her parachute. The minister gives her shelter, which arouses the members of his congregation and a series of complications follow which are full of pathos and comedy.

Tuesday evening, the three-act comedy drama, "The great question," will be the offering. The story of this great play is written around the question that is the subject of conversation in every town, city and hamlet in the United States—the struggle between capital and labor.

Wednesday evening, without a doubt the greatest mystery play of the century, "The Crimson Necklace," will close the three-days' engagement. A murder is committed; two different people have threatened the man's life; two other people confess to being guilty. The man is killed in full view of the audience, yet no one knows who is really guilty until the final act curtain.

On Wednesday afternoon, a special bargain matinee will be given, at which time the time-honored play of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be the attraction. Popular prices will prevail for the three-days' engagement.—Advt.

Notice the date on your label, (the date to which you are paid.) and if you are not paid at least up to date, please settle at once.

Pocomoke 2—Berlin 0.

The Soccer game played on Thursday of last week at Pocomoke resulted in another defeat for Berlin. The game was fought hard by both sides, the ball being in the middle of the field the most of the time.

Pocomoke scored one in the first half and another in the second, making the score 2 to 1 in their favor.

NOTICE!

Anyone wishing a copy of "The Anthem Angelic," a book of twenty-six sermons by the late Rev. William Henry Bancroft, can obtain it at this office for the low price of fifty cents—less than the cost of manufacturing. Some damaged volumes cheaper yet. These books are beautifully bound, and written in the characteristic style of the author, with an excellent full-page likeness of him.

The sermons were all delivered in Buckingham Presbyterian Church, except one, which was preached in the Methodist Church to build congregation while his own church was burned.

It is well worth the price, even as a souvenir of the Berlin of twenty years ago.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 20

PAUL BEFORE THE KING.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25:1-26:32.

GOLDEN TEXT—Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.—I Cor. 15:20.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—I Cor. 15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells How He Came to Obey Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Before King Agrippa.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—An Appeal to Caesar.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Courageous Testimony Before a King.

I. Paul Before Festus (25:1-12).

As soon as Festus, the new governor, goes to Jerusalem, he is besieged with accusers against Paul, and they desire that he be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus refused their request, but agreed to give them an opportunity to accuse Paul if they would go down to Caesarea. They go, but are unable to prove anything against him. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposes to send him to Jerusalem for trial. For this Paul issues a rebuke to Festus by asserting that he very well knew that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice before Festus, Paul makes use of his right as a Roman citizen, and appeals to Caesar. Paul well knew that to go to Jerusalem meant death, and since Festus was too much of a time-server to release him when he knew that he was innocent, he makes use of the radical step of appealing to Rome as the last resort. Festus seems to have been taken by surprise. His failure to release an innocent man had placed him in an awkward position, for he could give no explanation as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial. For a man to appear before Caesar would cast reflection upon Festus. He now consulted his council as to what to do, but since the Roman law gave every man the right of appeal to the emperor, there was nothing left for him to do but to grant his request.

II. Paul Before Agrippa (25:13-26:27).

1. The occasion (25:13-27). This was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. Upon their arrival they expressed a desire to hear Paul, whereupon Festus told them of his perplexity; so it was arranged that Paul be brought before them for examination.

2. The defense (25:1-27). (1) The introduction (vv. 1-3). In this he expressed his delight that he now could speak and tell his case to one who was able to follow his line of argument, for Agrippa was an expert in questions concerning the Jews; but most of all he was now happy in that he could witness to him of the Savior and perhaps lead him into the light of God. (2) In his manner of life (vv. 4-12). This he showed had been in strictest accord with the most rigid sect of the Jews. He possessed the same hope—that of a coming Deliverer—and reminded them of the fact that formerly he was most bitterly opposed to Christ, as his zeal would prove. These facts make the change from a persecutor to an ardent advocate all the more remarkable. (3) His supernatural conversion (vv. 13-15). Jesus Christ appeared to him on the way to Damascus and revealed himself to him. (4) Jesus Christ commissioned him for his work (vv. 16-18). He was sent unto the Gentiles (a) to open their eyes so awfully blinded; (b) to perform the blessed work of turning them from darkness to light; (c) to turn them from the power of Satan unto God; (d) that they might receive forgiveness of sins; (e) and that they might obtain an inheritance among the saints. (5) His consecration (vv. 19-23). As soon as he received his commission he obeyed. The very vigorous prosecution of his work brought him into conflict with the Jews for which they sought to kill him. (6) The interruption by Festus (v. 24). Seeing how thoroughly in earnest Paul was he attempted to account for it by calling him a crank, attributing it to the ravings of an unbalanced mind. (7) Paul's appeal to Agrippa (vv. 25-27). Still maintaining his courtesy he appealed to his knowledge of the work of Jesus and of the prophets for they have an intimate connection.

III. Agrippa Almost Persuaded (26:28-32).

Whether this answer is a contemptuous sneer or not, it is evident that his soul was unwilling to yield. Paul took Agrippa seriously. He plainly longed that Agrippa and all concerned would accept Christ and be saved.

"God is Love."

We never know through what divine mysteries of compensation the great Father of the universe may be carrying out His sublime plans; but those three words, "God is Love," ought to come as to every doubting heart, the solution of all things.—Selected.

RED CROSS SERVES 864,763 DISABLED

The 344 Chapters in Atlantic Division Spent $1,180,416 on ex-Service Men This Year.

Disabled men in numbers sufficient to populate a good sized city were aided this year by the 344 chapters of the Red Cross in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Connecticut and Delaware, according to an announcement from Atlantic Division headquarters in New York. Approximately $1,180,416 was expended in caring for 864,763 veterans and their families. Reports received at Red Cross headquarters show that the men and women who have been assisted in so many ways by the Greatest Mother are among the most loyal supporters of the coming Red Cross Roll Call, to be held from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

Distribute Comforts.

Of the 26,350 disabled men in the hospitals of the country more than 3,500 are being treated in hospitals in the Atlantic Division, and their comfort is one of the chief concerns of the Division's chapters. Red Cross workers are kept busy distributing comforts, providing entertainment and recreation and helping to straighten out family difficulties for these men. A total of 780,000 cigarettes were distributed this year, 1,000 tins of tobacco given away and 2,588 sweaters donated to convalescents. Loans totaling $6,952 were made and 32,539 social service cases carried through to a successful conclusion. Sporting goods and comforts were provided at a cost of $21,787.

Together with the newly formed United States Veterans' Bureau and the American Legion, the Red Cross is now participating in a nation wide cleanup campaign, which has as its aim the settling of all outstanding claims of ex-service men and women. In one month recently 6,302 claims were acted upon by the traveling squads in the six states. The number of Red Cross members engaged in this cleanup is 185, Legion workers numbering 43 and the Veterans' Bureau 149.

NOTED AS TROUBLE MAKERS

According to Historian, the Moplahs Had Evil Reputation as Far Back as 1518.

Duarte Barbosa's "Account of the Countries Bordering on the Indian Ocean and Their Inhabitants," written about 1518, contains a lengthy description of the Mapuleres or Moplahs, who even then were troubling the peace much as they now are.

"In this land of Malabar," writes Duarte Barbosa, "there are Moors in great numbers who speak the same tongue as the heathens of the land, and go naked like the Nayres, but as a token of distinction from the heathen they wear little round caps on their heads and long beards; and they are so many and so rooted in the soil throughout Malabar that it seems to me they are a fifth part of its people spread over all its kingdoms and provinces. They are rich and live well. They hold all the sea trade and navigation. . . . They belong to the sect of Mafamede; their holy day is Friday. They marry as many wives as they can support, and keep, as well, many heathen concubines of low caste. If they have sons or daughters by these they make them Moors, and ofttimes the mother as well, and thus this evil generation continues to increase in Malabar; the people of the country call them Mapuleres."

Taste Alone Is Not Sufficient.

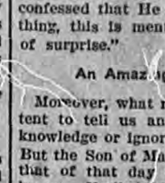
It will be found that taste alone is not sufficient to obtain the proper end of reading. Two persons of equal taste rise from the perusal of the same book with very different notions: the one will have the ideas of the author at command, and find a new train of sentiment awakened; while the other quits his author in a pleasing distraction, but of the pleasures of reading nothing remains but tumultuous sensation.—Isaac Disraeli.

Is Christ a Fallible Teacher?

By REV. LEW WOSNELL

Assistant Dean, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father.—Mark 13:32.



Our fathers would have been amazed to hear any Christian leader raise a question as to our Lord's trustworthiness as teacher. Today, however, we are assured from Christian pulpits and theological chairs that Jesus was a child of His times, holding many opinions common in His day, but now rejected in the light of increasing knowledge. It is asserted that even in the spiritual realm, our Lord was not an infallible teacher. His assertions as to Old Testament history and authorship are rejected by many, and more recently His teaching as to the future, especially the matter of His return, has been discarded.

Our text is adduced in support of this attitude, and it behooves us to consider these words of Christ's carefully. It is not to be disputed that Christ here disclaimed knowledge as to the day and hour of His coming. True, all the resources of His divine nature were open to His mind, but for certain mysterious purposes He was content to be ignorant of this one thing in the days of His humiliation. This admission of Christ, however, does not justify the inference drawn from it that He is not a reliable teacher.

First of all, this very confession of ignorance on one point contains an implicit claim of supernatural knowledge. A mere man would not need to inform us that he did not know the day or hour of the Lord's coming; we would take that for granted. The fact that Christ must so inform us, suggests at once that He was above man.

Again, notice the explicit claim Christ makes for Himself. Prof. James Stalker puts it thus: "Four planes of being and of the knowledge are specified—that of man, that of angels, that of Himself, and that of God. Evidently the Son was above, not only man, but angels, and if it is confessed that He is ignorant of anything, this is mentioned as a matter of surprise."

An Amazing Assertion.

Moreover, what mere man is competent to tell us anything about the knowledge or ignorance of the angels? But the Son of Man calmly announces that of that day and hour no angel knows. Verily, this passage in which Christ confesses ignorance assures us, at the same time, of most valuable insight on His part.

Finally, on this point in which He confesses His ignorance, Christ never ceased to teach. He bids us watch because we know not the day nor the hour, and informs the disciples that the Father hath kept the times and seasons within His own power. This very reserve begets in us a confidence that we may rely implicitly on any positive teaching Jesus gives about things present, things past, or things to come. It has been aptly said: "Christ knew what He knew, and never made positive affirmations unless He was sure of the correctness of what He said." How amazing it is that any man will charge our Lord with ignorance on any point upon which He claims knowledge!

Let no child of God be disturbed by learned talk as to the ignorance of our Lord. True, when He came into the world, He emptied Himself (Phil. 2:7 R. V.). But the fact that as the words imply, the emptying was voluntary, assures us that He was not so emptied as to be no longer able to teach us whom He came to teach and to save. It has been well said that a man who should go to Africa to teach the natives, but who would confess he was not competent to give instruction, would cease to be regarded as a benefactor and would appear, rather, as an impostor. But our Lord is the Truth.

One Having Authority.

In all His positive teaching, Christ speaks as one having authority, and not as the scribes of the earth. He confidently lifted the veil from the unseen world, in the parable of Lazarus, calmly announced to the Sadducees the conditions which will obtain in the resurrection. Think of such a declaration as He makes in Matthew 11:27: "All things are delivered unto me of my Father; and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him."

It will suffice, in closing, to give His own assurance as to His teaching. In John 12:40, 50, He says: "For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, He gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that His commandment is life everlasting; whatsoever I speak, therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak." And at the very close of His ministry, in His high-priestly prayer, He declares to the Father, concerning His disciples, "I have given unto them the words which Thou gavest me."—John 17:8.

When the Brakes Failed

"I saw the wreck of a fine locomotive today," said Uncle Zeph. "It was down at the draw. There it lay, deep in the mud at the bottom of the river, sort of standin' on its head, and all twisted and damaged. What with rust and breakage and twistin', it will never be a first class engine again, even if they get it out soon.

"Five minutes before the wreck happened, anybody would have thought it a first-class locomotive, though. It was makin' time, and beatin' the record. But the brakes had been gettin' out of order. The air pipe was defective, and leaked just a tiny bit. It didn't matter much on a clear road; but when the engineer saw this open draw ahead, and shut down hard, the trouble came. The break in the air pipe showed itself then, I tell you! Instead of bein' brought to a safe stop, the train rushed on. The conductor yelled, 'Jump!' to the engineer and fireman, and they saw it was all up, and leaped for their lives. Right through the open draw the engine went, and splash into the river, tender and all. There it lies now, and the engineer, he's in the hospital, and the fireman badly injured.

"I've seen young people that reminded me of that wrecked locomotive—first-class young people, full of 'go' and ability, seemin' as if they would break the record. The only trouble was, they let the brakes get out of order. They didn't keep a strict hold on themselves, and laughed at those who did. So long as their road was clear, no harm happened. But when danger suddenly opened ahead—as it always does sooner or later—they couldn't get the brakes on, and that was the end of them.

"Watch the brakes and keep them in order—that's the rule of safety; and it's better to have them too strong than not strong enough. Be in' too strict with one's self may be laughed at—but a wrecked soul is no laughin' matter, and that's what comes of neglected brakes."—Forward.

When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Berlin women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail, make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Ask your neighbor. Here's proof of their merit in a Berlin woman's words:

Mrs. Wm. Baker, Washington St., says: "I don't know how I would have made out without Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys were weak and I would almost get down with my back. I had such awful pains in the small of my back, I couldn't keep on my feet to do my work. The least work tired me out, and I was hardly ever free from nervous headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Farlow's Pharmacy and they just suited my case, soon relieving me of the aches and pains and all symptoms of kidney complaint. I depend on Doan's whenever my kidneys trouble me."

IT is an organization of 3084 Maryland men and women banded together to give the people of Maryland the best telephone service brains and energy and effort can make possible.

These people—many of whom have dedicated their lives to this service—are nearly all natives of this State. They are citizens of your cities and towns—they are your neighbors and friends.

The telephone is a regulated utility; the price of our service is controlled by state regulation. Our revenues being regulated, our expenses must be held in proportion. At no time during recent years, did our wages keep pace with those of other industries.

That condition still exists. But in spite of this limitation and the exacting requirements of war and reconstruction, Maryland's telephone people are now giving you a higher grade of service than at any time in the history of the system.

BRIAND ENDORSES NAVAL HOLIDAY

Premier and French Delegation Favorably Receive Hughes' Proposals.

Washington.—After study of the American proposal for limitation of naval armaments and informal discussion with members of the American delegation at luncheon at the French Embassy Premier Briand and the French delegation heartily endorsed the general principle enunciated by Secretary of State Hughes.

The Japanese delegation still withheld definite approval of the American program, but predicted success for the conference. Official confirmation of the appointment of Viscount Takahashi as Premier was received by the delegation. This news was accepted as meaning that the policies determined upon before the delegates left Japan would be adhered to.

"There is every evidence of the success of the conference," one of the officials said, significantly.

At the same time he made it plain that technical scrutiny of the applications of the American proposals to Japan would require considerable consideration by naval experts.

In this connection, reports published that the British delegation had intimated acceptance of the program was ridiculed by the Japanese. They were inclined to scout at the idea that Great Britain should reveal its attitude so early in the proceedings.

At Premier Briand's headquarters, it was announced that naval experts in the delegation had carefully gone over Secretary Hughes' statement and the prime minister personally had closely scrutinized it. There was little doubt, too, that the subject had been discussed at the luncheon at the French embassy.

LATEST EVENTS AT WASHINGTON

So far as the Republican conferees of both the senate and house are concerned there will be little trouble in reaching a compromise on surtax rates. Their problem will be chiefly one of devising a solution which will be acceptable to both the senate and house.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has entered the fight against the adoption of the American valuation plan as incorporated in the pending tariff bill.

Declaration of peace has been drafted by State Department and submitted to President Harding for approval.

President Harding, at 8 o'clock on Armistice night pressed the switch that opened the Crystal Arch and other brilliant illuminations in front of Continental Hall, where the conference on limitation of armament opens.

A dinner was given at the White House by President Harding for all the delegates to the arms conference.

Mr. Fordney, who heads the House conferees, declared that he not only will urge the acceptance of the 12½ per cent rate in the House bill, but will oppose any attempt to restore miscellaneous taxes.

Secretary of War Weeks has leased the government steam plant at Sheffield, Ala., which is part of the Muscle Shoals development, to the Alabama Power Company, for one year.

Senator Poindexter, ranking member of the Naval Affairs Committee, announced that he will oppose the proposal to suspend naval construction in the United States during the sessions of the conference on limitation of armaments.

Monastery Wine Mystery.

Mystery surrounds an old monastery near South Lea farm, Datchet. The greater part was pulled down some years ago and fire destroyed a good deal of the remainder. There are several deep wells, and it is said that at the bottom of one there are 3,000 bottles of wine placed there by monks, but an attempt to find them has failed. Under the ruins are a large number of earthenware bottles of quaint pattern, and there is a legend that a subway leads from the monastery to Burnham abbey.—London Daily Mail.

POULTRY FLOCKS

FEEDS FOR PRODUCING EGGS

Poultryman Should Have Full Knowledge of Proper Feed and How to Prepare It.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Everyone in the poultry business hopes to have eggs throughout the year, but of course this is scarcely possible. If the business is gone into on a commercial scale the largest profit should be obtained during the winter. If just two eggs a week extra can be obtained from every hen a good profit will be made, while if one egg a week extra can be recorded in the winter, this one egg will pay for all the feed the hen eats, according to the experiences of the poultry specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. To obtain this greater production not only should the fowls be young and of a good laying breed, but the feeder should have a full knowledge of the proper feed and how to prepare it. And this can be achieved only by study and care.

Nutriment in the feed of laying hens serves a twofold purpose: to repair waste and supply heat to the body and provide the egg-making materials. As only the surplus over what is needed for the body is available for egg production, the proper feeds should be given in sufficient quantities to induce this production.

In feeding poultry a valuable lesson may be learned from nature. In the spring the production of eggs is an easy matter. Fowls at liberty to roam find an abundance of green and animal feed on their range, which, with grain, provides a perfect ration for laying hens. In addition to this they get plenty of exercise and fresh air. So far as possible, then, the feeder should try to make these winter conditions [illegible].

Two systems are used in feeding fowls—the dry-mash and the moist-mash, although in the dry-mash system a light-moist mash often is fed. By the term "mash" poultrymen mean a mixture of ground feed, either moist or dry. The greatest advantages to be derived from the dry-feed system are the saving of labor and the lessened danger of bowel trouble resulting from sloppy or soured mashes. In the dry-feed system for laying hens, as practiced successfully on a New York poultry farm, the grains fed are as follows, in the proportions indicated.

This mixture is scattered in the litter early in the morning, and again at about 11:30 a. m., and this induces abundant exercise. A hopper containing dry mash is hung against the wall. The mash is made of these ingredients in the proportions indicated (by measure):

200 pounds cracked corn.	120 pounds wheat.
	120 pounds oats.
20 parts bran.	15 parts ground alfalfa.
10 parts middlings.
12 parts corn meal.	2 parts oyster shell.
10 parts meal (animal)	1 part grit.
	1 part charcoal.

The hopper containing this mash is kept before the fowls all of the time.

Corn is the most popular of all the grain feeds for farm poultry, probably because of its abundance and comparative cheapness, and because it is relished over all other grains. It should be balanced with meat, bone, linseed meal, gluten meal, and such feeds as are rich in protein, for corn is deficient in this constituent. When corn is fed to hens that have plenty of exercise, and a chance to get insects and green feed, more satisfactory results are likely to be recorded than when fed to the same fowls closely confined. It may be fed quite liberally to your poultry during the winter in cold climates, but should be fed sparingly in summer.

Wheat usually is considered the safest grain to feed alone, but is too expensive to be fed much to fowls. This grain should be supplemented with other grains and with some meat feed or skim milk to increase the proportion of protein. Wheat contains more protein than corn, about the same amount of carbohydrates, but less fat, and on the whole is considered not so valuable for fattening, but better for growth. Wheat screenings, if they are of a good grade, frequently can be purchased and fed to advantage. Of course, there is always danger of introducing weed seeds through their use. "Burnt wheat" seldom can be fed advantageously; the difference in price between this and good wheat usually being too slight to warrant one in buying it.

First Safety Razor.

The first safety razor was merely an ordinary straight razor with a detachable guard. It was made by Michael Hunter, of Sheffield, in 1875. Razors with removable blades were not introduced until some time later.

Mother's Whereabouts.

Julia was quite fond of using big words. One evening at a party some one asked her where her mother was. She said, "Well I guess she must be circulating around here some place. I came with her."

Twenty-three wide-awake people, each one of whom have caught a new vision of and have been filled with new energy for Sunday School work, are now back, and the coming district conventions should prove to be opportunities worth coveting for those of us who could not get to Baltimore. How Not to Take Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over-eating, becoming over-heated and then chilled, and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

Mrs. William Jarvis.

The hunting season began in Maryland last week, and the State Board of Forestry has sent out an appeal to the hunters to use great care with fire in the woods. A little camp fire left unextinguished, a careless match or cigaret butt thrown among dry leaves may start a forest fire that will sweep over vast areas, and besides doing great damage to the young timber, will kill the game that the forest shelters.

Red Cross Drive.

Only a few days are left of the time allotted for the Red Cross membership drive. The work of the Red Cross is being carried on with undiminished vigor wherever there is suffering and want. This is true in our own county as well as throughout the world. There are few who will deny that this organization is doing a tremendous amount of good among the victims of the war, sufferers from famine and want, and among the jobless and those too weak to care for themselves, and there are few who are able who are not glad to contribute.

A yearly membership costs $1.00. Of this amount fifty cents goes to the local work of the Red Cross, and fifty cents to the national organization. Despite the efforts to see everybody, there will be some persons in the county who will not be seen personally and asked to join. These persons are asked to send in their money before November 24th, to one of the local chairmen of the towns in the county, or to the county chairman at Snow Hill.

A Universal Products Plant Frees Women From the Dreary Drudgery, Which is Really Un-American

TAKE the family washing and ironing, for instance — two of the hardest, most depressing tasks American women have had to endure. The Universal Products plant frees the women of the home for all time from the dreaded "blue Monday."

Here is power for many uses in the home and on the farm — for churning butter, doing the sweeping; the washing and for pumping water, running the dairy machinery — in fact for all the round of duties that take so much time that can now-a-days be put to better use.

And there are hours gained for leisure and comfort and grace of living. Bright, cheerful, genial light — evenings pleasanter, the family happier and everybody more comfortable at home.

Universal Products Light and Power keeps workers contented. Its labor-saving economy enables them to actually accomplish more 365days in the year.

Let us show you this simple, economical plant. It costs less than you think. It produces more than you believe possible. Let us demonstrate some of the 1700 things it will do for you.

INDIAN WORLD'S OLDEST MAN?

"Wrinkled Meat" Claims to Have Been on Earth 134 Years, and Is Said to Look it.

Ka-he-nah-gwey-wence (wrinkled meat), better known to tourists of the Northwest as plain John Smith, is alleged to have recently celebrated his one hundred and thirty-fourth birthday, and any one who observes the depth and number of wrinkles in his face will have no reason to doubt that his given age is correct, although many will suspect him of withholding a number of birthdays from the total.

During a recent vacation trip in the region of Cass Lake, Minn., Earl E. Evans, a writer in Leslie's, twice visited "Wrinkled Meat" at his home, on the outskirts of the aforementioned village, and, on both occasions, found "Old John" in the best of spirits and willing to talk, so long as there was any one to listen.

John began the routine story of his one hundred thirty-four years, choosing as the first subject his nine squaws, who, John maintains, are responsible for his many wrinkles and long nose. "Me have nine squaws," said John. "All pretty face, but crazy. Pretty quick me get tired of squaw; throw 'em in the woods. No good."

"Me big Injun," continued John. "Fight two wars, many battles. Kill five Sioux and scalp 'em." At this part of his story John points proudly to his feathered headgear, hanging on the wall near his floor bed; and upon which are arrayed the five feathers representing the five unfortunate Sioux Indians. Long Prairie and Pine City were the two principal battles in which John engaged.

Chicago is his great nightmare, and he is not a trifle backward about expressing his opinion. "Crazy town," says John. "Many man, many squaw, too many kids; all crazy. Money, money, money, too much money. Me spend $10 one day," and then he sighs.

History in a Nutshell.

Some time after the school system was adopted by the navy a Filipino was directed to write an essay on George Washington. This, however, was the first composition, and was as follows:

George Washington was sore because American persons was not free. He sails for England on my ship and sat to king: 'I express declaryations of Indypendance for American persons.' King, he say 'Nothin' doin' and Mr. Washington tell Admiral Dewie to shoot big guns at him. Bimeby King, he say he will not run over American persons again. 'Let George do it,' he say, and today American persons she is free."—Great Lakes Bulletin.

FREIGHT RATES ON FARM PRODUCTS CUT

New Transportation Scale Offered for Six Months, to Continue if Men Accept Less Pay.

New York.—Realizing the precarious condition of the farmers and with the hope of reducing the cost of living, the executives of the railroads of the United States authorize a reduction of 10 per cent in freight rates on all farm products except cottonseed and cottonseed meal, irrespective of wage reductions.

The reduction becomes effective immediately on its approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has signified its willingness to ratify the [illegible] will apply [illegible] acter, with the stipulation that embargoes from the [illegible] [illegible] the wages of employees will be lowered to a point [illegible] warrant its [illegible] cent. Although the reduction means a loss of approximately $55,000,000 annually in railroad revenues, the action of the Association of Railway Executives was unanimous.

The efforts of the railroad executives to obtain a reduction in wages to the basis prevailing before March 1, 1920, when the roads were returned by the government, will be continued. Each road will deal individually with its employees. The thirty-day notice to the employees, as required by law, that a reduction in wages is contemplated has been ordered distributed by all lines.

The National Association of Railway Executives, representing 201 roads, met in the board room at the Grand Central Terminal. More than 95 per cent of the membership was present in person or represented.

Traffic moving wholly within New England is excepted from the reduction. This was conceded, it was said, because of the bad condition under which those railroads are operating.

ANTI-BEER BILL PASSES SENATE

If President Signs, All Brew, Even for Medicine, Will Be Stopped Immediately.

TEST TO SUPREME COURT

Prevents Importation of All Liquors Till Present Supply Is Smaller—Survives Hard Fight—Seizure Without Warrant Created a Storm.

Washington.—The Volstead supplemental enforcement measure eliminating the use of beer for medicinal purposes was approved by the Senate. The vote was 56 to 22. The result had for weeks been accepted as a foregone conclusion. The opposition strength did not exceed previous estimates.

The twenty-two Senators who voted to reject the conference report on the Beer and Wine Bill were Brandegee, Broussard, du Pont, Edge, Gerry, Johnson, King, La Follette, Lodge, McLean, Penrose, Phipps, Pomerene, Ransdell, Shields, Shortridge, Stanley, Underwood, Wadsworth, Walsh of Massachusetts, Watson of Georgia and Weller.

The indorsement of the Senate completes action on the Beer and Wine Bill. It now goes to the President. The manufacture and sale of beer under existing regulations must cease immediately upon his signature.

The act is regarded by many legal authorities as unconstitutional. Test cases will be prepared at the earliest opportunity and the new law will be brought before the United States Supreme Court for an opinion.

Following the passage of the report, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, gave out a statement in which he declared:

"The passage of the Anti-Beer Bill is a victory for law, for enforcement, and it blasts all hopes for the return of both beer and medicinal beer."

These are the high points of the act as outlined by Mr. Wheeler:

"It prohibits prescribing beer or malt liquors for medicinal purposes.

"Not more than one-fourth gallon of [illegible] or similar [illegible] quor separately or in the aggregate containing more than half a pint of alcohol may be prescribed in ten days.

"Physicians are limited to 100 prescriptions in ninety days, unless extraordinary reasons are presented.

"Preparations of spirituous or vinous liquor is prohibited until the amount on hand shall not be sufficient to supply the current need for non-beverage use.

"The tax on liquor stolen or destroyed shall not be collected from the owner or the loser if theft did not occur as the result of negligence or collusion or fraud on the part of the owner or person legally accountable for same.

"Private residences may not be searched without a search warrant. Officers who, without probable cause and maliciously, search any place without a search warrant are penalized. Persons who impersonate officers enforcing the Prohibition Act are heavily penalized."

Senators Stanley, Broussard and those who led the fight against the measure insist that its provisions can be construed to permit search and seizure without a warrant and that the Bill of Rights in the Constitution has been impaired, if not destroyed.

Senators Wadsworth and Brandegee made the concluding addresses in opposition of the bill, holding its provisions unconstitutional. Sterling and McKellar spoke for the measure.

If President Harding approves the act the Treasury will amend its present regulations to conform with it and the sale of beer as a medicine will be stopped forthwith. Officials of the department, however, anticipate that the question will be fought out in the courts on the constitutionality of the law before its final disposition.

At the White House officials declined to intimate what President Harding will do with the measure.

DENBY WOULD TAKE GIFT

Asks Authority to Accept Aviation Ground at Rockaway.

Washington. — Authority to accept from the city of New York, without expense to the federal government, the site of the naval aviation station at Rockaway Beach, Long Island, was requested of Congress by Secretary Denby. The tract comprises thirty-four acres and on it are hangars, shops, storehouses and barracks, which would be of little value if the station were abandoned.

Hagerstown.—One of the most important questions to be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce, which is being reorganized for a three-year term, is the question of a change in the form of government of Hagerstown. There is a growing sentiment here for a commission form of government with a city manager at the head. For several months there has been a movement under way for a revision of the City Charter, some sections of which have become antiquated and are no longer practicable. Committees to take up the work of having the charter revised and to formulate plans for drawing up a measure calling for a new form of government to be presented at the session of the General Assembly have been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce. Mechanism of Glaciers.

In tunneling through glaciers during the Alpine operations of the war, opportunity was offered for observations of inner structure and movements. In shallow cuttings, characteristics only to be expected at much greater depths were found. The alternation of lighter and denser layers cannot here be caused by pressure, but must be a primary, sedimentary formation. Interior crevasses often ended in a plane of stratification, thus pointing to the importance of such planes in the glacier mechanism.

Red Cross Activities.

Red Cross workers are now putting their first-aid classes, and with their usual well known results in France and in American Hospitals, into practical instruction.

Under the direction of Major M. J. Shields, industrial workers will be taught how to administer first-aid, how to prevent accidents and to pass on the Red Cross doctrine to their fellow-workmen. In this manner it is hoped to reduce industrial casualties to a minimum.

Major Shields, who makes his headquarters in Washington, is now instructing a class of 17 employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of the North Exchange, 14th and R Streets northwest. For some time the company has been using Red Cross text in teaching its employees how to work safely, but recently the society placed its full knowledge and service at the company's disposal. The Telephone officials, realizing that their own efforts could be improved upon by the organization that accomplished such a gigantic amount of good, not only during the war, but in other emergency periods of the past 70 years, willingly organized the class for instruction by Major Shields.

Major Shields is a pioneer in Red Cross work, having begun to teach it in 1910. His first efforts were among the miners and railroad men, and among various organizations. He made a study of emergency hospital methods, and always made it a practice when giving instruction to stress the importance of preventing accidents, rather than having to treat them after they happened.

During the war, he served in the Medical Corps of the regular army and was of considerable help in instructing men how to administer first aid on the battle field.

MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER BAUGHMAN SENDS OUT APPLICATIONS TO AVOID CONGESTION.

Applications Being Mailed Out At Rate Of 20,000 Daily During This Month

To obviate if possible the congestion which in past years has swamped the office force, multiplied the chance for error, and caused delay to the motorist and confusion in the office, Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman started on Monday of this week the machinery for registering and licensing nearly 150,000 motor vehicles owned in Maryland. Every car must be registered and receive license tags for 1922. Where the motorist co-operates with the Commissioner's force and takes advantage of the early start, registration and actual issuance of the license tags will begin on Thursday, December 1st.

The new 1922 license tags will be blue and white and in sharp contrast to the old ones. The numerals in white will be on a dark blue background. In order that the mails and the office channels may not become clogged either with the outing application blanks or when these are mailed in after being filled in by the applicant and to forestall as much as possible congestion when the registration certificate and the metal tags are sent out, the application blanks will be released each day until November 28th in blocks of 20,000 daily.

Last year great confusion was caused and much delay resulted through many of the applicants, when they received their blanks, tearing off and retaining the registration coupon. This coupon is useless until it has been returned to the office of Commissioner Baughman and there had stamped upon it the number of the metal license tag for that particular car.

Deputy Automobile Commissioner Schroeder this week pointed out that what the applicant must do with the application blanks before returning them is:

First, sign the application, second, insert the number of the operator's chauffeur's license card, and third, insert the name of the anti-glare headlight device with which the car is equipped. This information must be written in in ink and the application be remailed to the office of the Commissioner with the required fee.

"This department would like to impress as firmly as possible upon car owners the saving in time and inconvenience to themselves as well as to this office which will result in immediate remailing of these application blanks. This should be done [illegible] the car owner [illegible] wait to apply for tags. Co-operation now will save the rush in the last week of the year. This will save the applicant from having to delay several days into the new year before being able to use his or her car," said Mr. Schroeder.

Mr. Schroeder added that if the instructions are carried out properly and no errors have been made and the proper fee enclosed, the new license plates and the next year's registration card will be mailed out the same day it is received beginning on December 1st. This will give every motorist the entire month of December in which to adjust any errors or mistakes which may have been made in the original application.

It was pointed out by Mr. Schroeder that the habit of a great number of motorists of postponing their application for license until after Christmas Day results in an accumulation of such a rush of work as is physically impossible for the clerical force at the office of the Commissioner to handle. This, even when the force works day and night, as it has had to do for several years past, results in congestion and delays for the applicant. Such a rush also multiplies the chances for errors which it takes further time to straighten out.

Mr. P. LaRuke, Farmer, Says, "You a Bet Rats Can Bite Through Metal."

"I had feed bins lined with zinc last year, rats got through pretty soon. Was out $18. A $1.25 pkg. of RAT-SNAP killed so many rats that I've never been without it since. Our collie never touched RAT-SNAP." You try it. Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Berlin Hardware Co., Berlin, Exclusive.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears, before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children, as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.—Adv.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 27

PAUL'S VOYAGE AND SHIPWRECK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 27:1-44.

GOLDEN TEXT—I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.—II Tim. 1:12.

REFERENCE MATERIAL — II Cor. 11:23-28; Phil. 4:12, 13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Shipwreck.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in a Shipwreck.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Storm and Shipwreck.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Power Over Men.

I. A Stormy Voyage (vv. 1-20).

1. The ship. A ship of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company. Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, are permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship (v. 7).

3. The storm. The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Havens (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. The gentle south wind deceived them, so they loosed from Crete, only to be soon overtaken by the tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon. They did everything possible to save the ship. They took up the boat which was towed behind; they bound great cables around the ship to strengthen it for the storm; they lightened the ship by bringing down from the masts and rigging everything that was superfluous; and finally, the cargo and tackling of the ship itself were thrown overboard. All this seemed to be of no avail, so that all hope of being saved was removed. It seemed that wicked men and material forces were combined to prevent the great apostle from reaching Rome. However, this is only apparent, for these very experiences were overruled by God to bring good cheer and salvation to many on the way. We should remember that tempestuous winds, as well as the soft breezes, await God's faithful ones. The presence of storms does not prove that we are going the wrong way.

II. Paul's Serene Faith (vv. 21-26).

To a man who did not know God, the failure of the sun and stars to shine for many days, the fading of all hope, was natural; but to the man of faith, hope still burns brightly. God is just as near to His own in the midst of a stormy sea as in their quiet homes.

Note Paul's behavior:

1. His rebuke for their failure to heed his advice at Fair Havens (v. 21). This was not a mere taunt, but a reference to the wisdom of his former advice urging them to give him a more respectable hearing.

2. Bids them be of good cheer (v. 22). He inspired them with hope.

3. He promises them safety (v. 22). Though the ship would go to pieces, every man's life would be saved.

4. The source of his information (vv. 23, 24). The angel of God had revealed it unto him.

5. The reason of Paul's calm faith (v. 23). "Whose I am and whom I serve."

III. The Ship's Crew All Safe on Land (vv. 27-44).

This was exactly as the Lord had said. We can rest assured that all God has spoken shall come to pass, even though there be a broken ship, brutal soldiers and a perfidious crew. Aside from the fulfillment of God's promise, the most important part of this section is the splendid sanity which characterizes Paul's action on the way. Two things especially mark his sanctified common sense.

1. His vigilance had detected that the sailors had planned to escape. He knew how much they would be needed presently, and at once took steps to prevent their escape. He went straight to the man in charge and said "Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved." He practiced the truth that genuine reliance upon God is the all-powerful incentive to human action. God's ends always include the means to their accomplishment.

2. He knew that the famishing condition of the people was not the most favorable for the physical struggle which was soon to be undergone by them when they must struggle through the water to the shore. So he gets them to take a substantial breakfast. He had the good sense to look after that which was necessary. It was no time to talk to these men about their souls, for their bodies needed the main attention. His prayer for that meal had more effect upon the people than his preaching would have had. Let us learn from this the divine method of administration, namely, God overruling while man trusts Him and acts. A vigorous faith manifests itself in reasonable action.

Peopled the Holy City.

And the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem; the rest of the people also cast lots, to bring one of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, the holy city, and nine parts to dwell in other cities. And the people blessed all men, that willingly offered themselves to dwell at Jerusalem—Nehemiah, 11:1 and 2.

At War Against the Soul.

Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.—1 Peter 2: 11.

WOULD PRESERVE OLD HOUSE

Plans Made for Restoring Structure, Said to Be the Oldest in the Northwest.

Plans are being laid by the Vancouver Historical society to preserve the old Covington house at Orchards, six miles from this little town. The house is said to be the oldest in the northwestern part of the United States. It is of logs and is in a ruinous condition, being used as a sheepfold. The historical society expects to restore it.

The cabin was built early in the last century by Richard Covington, an employee of the Hudson's Bay company, when Fort Vancouver was the capital of the fur company on the western side of the Rocky mountains. It was the first schoolhouse in the Northwest. Covington taught the children of fur company employees and settlers there. Mrs. Elizabeth Bird, eighty-five years of age, still living in Clarke county, Washington, was married in it in 1858 by Chaplain John McCarty, stationed at Fort Vancouver. This was a short time after U. S. Grant, after his return from the Mexican war, visited the fort.

When Fort Vancouver was owned by the Hudson's Bay company, the company was ruler of three-fourths of the North American continent. Its dominion extended from Labrador to the Pacific and from the Arctic ocean to the Spanish settlements in California. It moved its western headquarters to Fort Victoria on Vancouver island during the dispute between England and the United States over the Oregon boundary line. It surrendered its sovereignty to Canada in 1870.

Parachutes Rescue Flyer.

Wireless and aeronautic science were recently employed in a very timely combination which saved the life of an air-service cadet flying from Mather field, California, over Crater National forest in Oregon, according to an article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. While in the neighborhood of Crater lake, the spark plugs ceased working in the engine of his plane, and landing was necessary. Choice in landing places was confined to either the rugged mountain peaks below or a small island of black lava in the middle of the lake. After some deliberation he chose the latter and made a landing in the huge cliff-rimmed cup. The plucky pilot then set his radio outfit in operation and after many hours of waiting, rescue planes arrived carrying the necessary spark plugs. Adverse air currents within the great "moon hole" prohibited the descent of the rescuers, and so the plugs were attached to parachutes and dropped. The lost pilot placed the plugs, started his engine and made a perilous take-off over the lake surface.

Appreciation.

The mayor of a Southern town had been asked to assist in the annual entertainment given at Christmas to the inmates of the local workhouse. He consented with great complaisance and went and made up as Father Christmas. For a time his antics and pranks were the delight of the company.

A damper on his enjoyment was, however, eventually brought forward by a scrap of conversation he chanced to overhear.

"Isn't he enjoying himself?" remarked one old man to another. "What a treat it is for the likes of him! But why can't they let all the loonies out on a night like this?"

"Well," replied the other, "mebbe they ain't all so harmless as this'n!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Peaceful Scenes on Battlefield.

A marvelous change has come over the battlefields of Gallipoli. There are very few evidences of the great conflict which was waged there, and the landscape is dotted with herds and picturesque shepherds. Occasionally one will come across a pile of wire or other debris as a reminder of the presence of the armies. The land is to a great extent under tillage or being prepared for crops.

Your "Tip" to the Thief.

In a crowd the thief will often raise a cry of "watch out for pickpockets," and immediately everyone puts up his hand to the pocket in which he carries his money. The thief watches closely and thereupon is informed just where you carry your wealth. The hip pocket is said to be the most unsafe place for valuables as it is the most easily reached by the thief.

The Joy of Temptation

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE

Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.—Jas. 1:2-4.

There is a philosophy of life which expresses itself in the words, "Grin and bear it." Its most recent development is manifest in the appointment of "Smile 'em up" committees. This attitude may have some value. It is surely better than complaint and moroseness. But it falls infinitely short of the plane of Christian living which comes into view in this Scripture—"Count it all joy when ye fall into manifold temptations."

The word "temptation" means trial or testing. It is a test of character, not an incitement to wrongdoing. Sometimes these testings are unlooked for, so that we are said "to fall" into them. They are "manifold." This refers to their variety rather than their number. They are many sided, many colored; some severe, others mild, some prolonged, others brief. They give occasion for every sort of joy. This is the literal meaning of the words "all joy." We are to count it every sort of joy when we "fall into" these "manifold temptations."

But how can we do this? Only by knowing that the test patiently endured will lead to a great triumph, the triumph of faith and of a strong enduring character which is the result of faith.

Faith is the most precious and powerful thing in the world. Its education is of untold importance. A returned missionary from Tibet recently said in a public address, "God is looking everywhere for men and women who will trust Him." Trust is developed through trial. Under divine direction, Moses led the Israelites to the Red sea that they might learn in experience the power of God to save, and that their trust in Him might be strengthened. Jesus took His disciples into a storm that through the test they might learn to trust, because of the experimental knowledge of His power to deliver.

Every trial is a trial of faith. We never fail till we fail inside. Every outward yielding is the expression and result of a surrender within. The trial of faith is declared to be much more precious than gold that perisheth. Gold is the standard of value in the world of men and affairs, but in the higher realm of spirit and character, faith is the standard, the faith that endures. Thru this process many noble and Christlike qualities are developed into [illegible] "We glory in tribulations," says Paul, because they produce in us patience, steadfastness and hope. These are Christlike qualities, the flower of Christian character, the possession of which constitutes the triumph which makes all the tests worth while. When we become Christians, a new life from above is imparted to us. Every Christlike and gracious quality is enfolded in this new life, even as the oak tree is wrapped up in the acorn. The unfolding and development of this life is the one big outstanding problem confronting us. Without the manifold temptations, the new life would be dwarfed and stunted. Because of their operation and result, the life is perfected, so that where patience has her perfect work the life stands "perfect and entire, wanting nothing." Somehow the Christian life develops best under adversity. All sunshine makes the desert. Life needs clouds in order to have a glorious sunset.

Another factor entering into the triumph emanating from the manifold temptations is the capacity to enjoy which those have who patiently endure the sufferings of this present time. They will best be able to enjoy the glories that shall be revealed in us. So then, there is reason to "count it all joy when ye fall into manifold temptations, knowing that the trial of your faith worketh patience." This is not mere passive submission, but rather endurance. It is the faith that does not shrink, the perseverance that does not falter under burdens. When this sort of patience is permitted to have a perfect work, perfection of life and character is reached, and this is the triumph that makes all endurance worth while and enables us to count it every sort of joy when we "fall into manifold temptations." It is possible to hinder this triumph unless the human will co-operates with the divine purpose. There is grace enough for this also, so that sufferings may be borne joyously as well as submissively.

David Laments Absalom's Death.

And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept; and as he went, thus he said, O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom! would God, I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!—II Samuel 18:33.

Things That Are in the World.

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.—I John 2:15.

REVOLT IN LOWER CALIFORNIA

Several Killed in Fighting in San Antonio Canyon.

San Diego, Cal.—Six members of a party of forty Mexicans are dead as a result of an uprising against the Mexican government troops in San Antonio Canyon, six miles south of Tia Juana, Lower California. In the skirmish four of the invading party were killed. Two were captured by the Federals and executed.

No Americans were permitted in the main part of Tia Juana.

Suppose.

Suppose a world of troubles do
Annoy you day by day;
Suppose that friends considered true
Your trust in them betray;
And rocks may bruise and thorns may tear
Your worn and weary feet,
And every day you meet a snare—
Keep sweet.

Suppose you have not each desire
That forms within your mind;
And earth denies you half your hire,
And heaven seems quite unkind;
And you have not the best to wear,
Nor yet the best to eat—
You seem to have the meanest fare—
Keep sweet.

A sour heart will make things worse
And harder still to bear,
A merry heart destroys the curse
And makes the heavens fair;
So I advise, whate'er your case—
Whatever you may meet,
Dwell on the good—forget the base—
Keep sweet.

—Selected.

The Loss That Is Gain.

"It is the effort to win, rather than the victory, which has real value," says Mr. Gladstone. "For while the victory in a competition may be the means of laying the mind asleep, and inducing it to rest upon what it has done, the effort, the true, honest, manful effort, whether it be successful or not, will have left you more competent and more vigorous for the discharge of every other duty, and better disposed to face and to grapple with the difficulties which in one shape or another must be your lot in life." And whoever thus strives is sure of the real victory in the end, no matter how near defeat or apparently defeated he may have been. And he will rejoice then, no matter how he wept in the anguish of the struggle.

"Safe home, safe home in port!
Rent cordage, shattered deck,
Torn sails, provisions short,
And only not a wreck!
But oh! the joy upon the shore,
To tell our voyage perils o'er!

"The prize, the prize secure!
The athlete nearly fell;
Bore all he could endure,
And bore not always well.
But he may smile at troubles gone,
Who sets the victor-garland on!

"No more the foe can harm;
No more the leaguer'd camp;
And cry of night alarm
And [illegible] lamp;
[illegible] nearly be [illegible]

God lets life be filled [illegible] this struggle, that we may be perfected by it, and win our crowns only after a struggle that shall make them of inestimable worth to us.—Forward.

Trades For Ministers.

A prominent Philadelphia clergyman strongly urges all young men who intend to enter the ministry to learn some trade either before or after their ordination. He has examined the statistics of the various Protestant denominations and has been appalled by the number of ministers who are without a charge. He thinks a trade would be a good thing to fall back on in such cases, besides standing the preacher in good stead in many ways while still in the pulpit.

When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Berlin women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail, make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Ask your neighbor. Here's proof of their merit in a Berlin woman's words:

Mrs. Wm. Baker, Washington St., says: "I don't know how I would have made out without Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys were weak and I would almost get down with my back. I had such awful pains in the small of my back, I couldn't keep on my feet to do my work. The least work tired me out, and I was hardly ever free from nervous headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Farlow's Pharmacy and they just suited my case, soon relieving me of the aches and pains and all symptoms of kidney complaint. I depend on Doan's whenever my kidneys trouble me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Baker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Rat That Didn't Smell After Being Dead for Three Months.

"I swear it was dead at least 3 months," said James Sykes, Butcher, Westfield, N. J. "We saw this rat every day. Put a cake of RAT-SNAP behind a barrel. Months later my wife asked about the rat. Remembered the barrel, looked behind it. There was the rat—dead, not the slightest odor." Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Berlin Hardware Co., Berlin, Exclusive.

McWilliams' Liquified Ko-ko-nut Oil Shampoo

Is the outgrowth of many years of effort to perfect a shampoo that will add a luster to the hair and one which would eliminate entirely the burning, biting effect usually noticed in other shampoo articles. The Glycerine, which forms a part of this preparation, has a tendency to give healing qualities to its use. Leading hair dressing and barber shops have endorsed our shampoo and we feel safe in saying that if given a trial, you will use no other.

A Telephone System Must Expand

THERE is no such thing as closing the capital account of a telephone system unless it proposes to go out of business. The telephone system that is not going forward is going backward.

Each new subscriber requires additional plant—a new telephone set, additional central office equipment, in most cases an additional line from the central office to the subscriber's premises.

But these additions cannot wait until the subscriber wants service. To do this would require that applicants wait sometimes for an indefinite period. We must anticipate the public's needs and always maintain a reserve plant—conduits, cables, switchboards, wires.

To meet the requirements for next year and the years to come the money for the extensions must be secured from the investors this year. Our earnings this year, then, will determine whether we can attract the new capital necessary to meet your requirements for service next year.

UNKNOWN HERO LAID TO REST

Buried Amid Highest Honors in All History, as Symbol of the Country's Fallen.

STIRRING MILITARY PAGEANT

President Officiates at Impressive Ceremonies at Capitol and Tomb. Leaders of Great Nations Join in Honoring Symbol.

Washington.—America buried her Unknown Warrior on Armistice Day—placed in the earth the body of that boy whose very namelessness symbolized 50,000 others who had given their lives for America on the field of battle in the World War.

Surrounded by the world's great, with none of them too great to bow in homage, this dead boy's funeral was still no pageant, no spectacular drama, no worldly show. It was more a benediction, a spiritual something whose very realities were less apparent than the thoughts they conjured.

Washington has witnessed many notable ceremonials, but never one like this. Its people saw the bodies of Lincoln and Garfield borne along the broad streets, and under cover of darkness, through a drizzling rain, had watched the solemn progress of that procession which followed the dead McKinley to the White House. There were tears of sorrow then. There were tears on this occasion, but most of those who shed them were carried away by the emotion of the symbolism of patriotism which this unknown American embodied.

Taken from that central spot in the Capitol's rotunda where before this only the bodies of Presidents had lain in state, and where it had been designed to place the body of George Washington, this fighting boy whose coffined figure stood for sacrifice to honor and patriotism was followed to his body's final resting place by statesmen, law-makers, law-givers, soldiers, sailors and many others, led by the President of the United States, all walking for part of that solemn journey close to the funeral caisson.

At Arlington, the nation's military Valhalla, in the low Virginia hills which form a background for the capital city, the Unknown Warrior was placed in a marble sarcophagus, designed to be a national shrine like that under the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, where an unknown poilu's body rests, and Westminster Abbey, where Britain's Unknown lies.

The place of burial is a lawn with grass still green overlooking the Potomac and the city beyond, the white dome of the Capitol and the tall shaft of the Washington Monument standing out conspicuously among the mass of buildings.

As the burial services were conducted there stood around the flag-draped casket men whose names are known throughout the world.

President Harding watched the final scene with uncovered head. Near him was ex-President Taft, now Chief Justice of the United States, stalwart and alert, in the vigor of health.

Ex-President Woodrow Wilson was not there as he had planned to be, but he rode in the funeral procession through the streets of Washington as far as the White House and received an ovation all along the route.

Foch, Marshal of France, stood beside the sarcophagus also. Near by General Pershing, head of America's war army, alert and handsome, the personification of soldierly appearance, watched the solemn scene. Aristide Briand, Premier of France, sturdy as the Breton fisherfolk from whom he came, was there, and with him Rene Viviani, whose premiership was all stress and storm. Admiral Lord Beatty, chief of the British naval warriors, was another to whom this scene must have brought memories of the World War.

Diaz, generalissimo of the Italian armies, and hailed by his people as the hero of the Piave; General Baron Jacques, Belgium's foremost soldier; General the Earl of Cavan, who commanded the British forces in Italy; American generals who led armies, corps and divisions in France, admirals of the American navy, and a host of others stood beside the unknown's grave.

Tokugawa, Prince of Japan, last of the militant Shoguns, watched closely this occidental scene, which had all the elements of appeal to the Oriental imagination.

Secretary Hughes was in the foreground with Weeks, secretary of war, and Denby, secretary of the navy, and behind them the other members of the cabinet. Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge stood near President Harding and Mrs. Harding. All these and others whose names are known in other lands stood silently by the caisson of the man who died for his country.

FIRED FOR POWDERING FACE

Teacher Appeals to Court From School's Blue Rules.

Knoble, Ark.—A writ of mandamus asking that she "be retored to her rights in the public schools" has been filed here by Miss Pearl Pugsley, eighteen years old, who says she was dismissed for using face powder. The school board issued a statement that no face powders, cosmetics, rouges, peek-a-boo waists, thin stockings or abbreviated skirts would be tolerated in the schools.

ROADS MOVE TO CUT WAGES

Railway Pay and Freight Rates Must Fall Together at Once, Say Executives in New York.

NO FEAR OF LABOR BOARD

Roads Move to Cut Wages $300,000,000 for Freight Saving—Commerce Commission to Be Consulted on Change in Tariffs.

New York.—The railroads intend to establish concurrent reductions in wages and freight rates without delay.

The 2,000,000 railway men in the United States will be notified by their respective managements of proposals carrying a new and further reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of train service employees and cutting all other classes of workers down to the going rates paid for similar kinds of work in non-transportation industries.

The resultant saving in operating expenses, estimated at between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000, will be passed on at once to shippers and the general public in horizontal reduction in freight charges.

Members of the Association of Railway Executives, representing more than 95 per cent of the railroad mileage in the United States, met in the board room of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to determine the quickest means of putting the issue of lower wages before the Railroad Labor Board and that of rates before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It was announced that neither the recently averted strike against the wage reduction effected last July nor the statement of the Railroad Labor Board that no further wage revision for any class of employees would be considered until pending disputes over working rules have ben decided will deter the carriers. They will try to follow the decision of the Association of Railway Executives on October 14 to wipe out the remainder of the 22½ per cent wage increase of 1920 and immediately to translate the saving into decreased transportation charges.

The association designated its executive committee, headed by T. De Witt Cuyler, to confer formally with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington with reference to measures for obtaining and distributing equitably lower freight rates.

The action of the association was forecast plainly by decisions at a meeting of the Eastern presidents' conference at the Metropolitan Club, Fifth avenue and Sixtieth street, earlier in the day. Chief executives of fifty-two railroads embracing all the territory north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers attended.

These men determined that the Eastern carriers would lose no time in following the lead of the Western roads in sending out notifications of the proposed wage cuts. Similarly, preparations of the steam carriers of the Southeast and the Southwest are known to be so near completion that their notices will be posted also within a few days.

The committee of rail executives named to confer with the Interstate Commerce Commission follows:

Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, chairman, Association of Railway Executives; E. N. Brown, chairman, St. Louis, San Francisco and Pere Marquette; Howard Elliott, chairman, Northern Pacific; S. M. Felton, president, Chicago Great Western; Hale Holden, president, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman, Southern Pacific; Robert S. Lovett, chairman, Union Pacific; Samuel Rea, president, Pennsylvania Railroad; A. H. Smith, president, New York Central; W. B. Storey, president, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Alfred P. Thom, general counsel, Association of Railway Executives; Daniel Willard, president, Baltimore and Ohio, and Henry Walters, chairman, Atlantic Coast Line.

In addition to the executive committee, it is understood that the following traffic officials will join in the conference:

Chair Silencers.

In rooms where the floor is not covered with a soft carpet the moving of chairs is often the cause of a good deal of noise. The trouble may be remedied in this way: From thick felt cut small rounds to glue on to the feet of the chairs. These can be secured from an old hat or cut from an odd piece of floor covering. The chairs can then be moved about quietly even on the hardest floors.

Overcrowded Room.

A room that is overcrowded and hung with heavy draperies is bad for health. A bedroom should have plenty of windows and they should be kept open during the night.

POULTRY

GEESE QUITE EASILY RAISED

Kept Generally in Small Flocks on Farms and Purchased by Experienced Fatteners.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is a demand usually for young geese from June to January, although most of them are sold around Thanksgiving and Christmas. Ten-weeks-old goslings of the largest breeds of pure-bred geese weigh up to ten pounds when forced for rapid growth, and sometimes are profitably marketed at that age as green geese. Large cities containing a foreign population offer the best markets for geese.

Geese usually are killed and picked the same as other kinds of poultry, but are much more difficult to pick than chickens. Generally the veins in the back of the mouth are severed with a long-bladed knife, followed with a blow on the back of the head with a short club. The wings are picked to the first joint, and the feathers are removed from the neck half way to the head, pulling with the feathers and not back toward the head. The soft pin feathers and fine down may be removed partly by rubbing the body with moistened hands or by shaving the skin.

The dry picking of geese is rather difficult. The most common practice is to scald or steam the goose feathers before picking. This can be done over a wash boiler three-fourths full of boiling water, laying the dead goose on a burlap sack stretched tightly over the boiler, and steaming first the breast, then the back, and then each side. The whole process of steaming will not take more than two or three minutes, and the goose must be kept moving to prevent scalding the flesh. The goose is steamed until the feathers can be pulled out easily, and the head usually is laid under the breast to keep the breast from scalding. After picking, the bird is singed over an alcohol flame, the alcohol usually being burned in shallow tin plates.

Another method for removing the down is to sprinkle powdered rosin over the body of the goose and dip it into hot water, which melts the rosin so that it and the down can be rubbed off easily, leaving the body clean. Geese may also be steamed by scalding slightly and wrapping the body tightly for five minutes or longer in burlap or cloth to allow the steam to work thoroughly through the feathers. Some markets prefer dry-picked geese, while in other markets no difference is made in scalded or dry picked.

Geese are raised successfully in all parts of the United States, but are most abundant in the South and the Middle West. Slightly more than one-tenth of the farms in the United States reported geese in the census of 1910.

Mature Geese and Partly Grown Goslings Will Get Their Living From a Good Pasture So Long as the Grass Remains Green.

Practically all there are in this country are in small flocks, and few, if any, farms are devoted entirely to their raising. Fattening, however, is conducted as a special business on a large scale in the producing sections, in which case the geese are collected from the general farms, usually over a large area, and fattened for a few weeks before they are killed.

On farms where there is plenty of grass or pasture land geese can be raised successfully in small flocks. A natural supply of water is, of course, essential. The birds are very hardy, both young and old, and rarely are affected by any disease or insect pest. Grass forms the bulk of the feed, and it is doubtful whether it pays to raise them unless it is available. They are the closest known grazers. Both mature geese and partly grown goslings will get their entire living from a good pasture so long as the grass remains green. A body of water where they can swim is considered essential during the breeding season, and is a good feature the rest of the year.

MARKET UNDESIRABLE STOCK

Poultryman Should Go Over Flock and Cull Out Fowls Not Wanted for Winter.

If you have not already done so it will be well to cull out and sell off such stock as you do not intend to winter. In fact, it is generally desirable to have September and October cullings for the purpose of marketing such old and young stock as it will not pay to carry through the winter season.

LOWER TAX ON BUSINESS

Chairman Fordney to Urge 12½ Per Cent Provided by House.

Washington.—Reduction in the tax on corporation earnings from the 15 per cent flat rate in the Senate bill will be urged by Representative Fordney, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, even though it means a prospective deficit in revenues.

It is Mr. Fordney's belief that further cuts can be made in government expenditures.

No Medicinal Beer.

The United States Senate on last Friday voted, 56 to 22, for the conference report on the supplemental prohibition bill, which forbids the sale of the so-called "medicinal beer." The House of Representatives had already approved the measure, and the president's signature, on Wednesday, put an end to the hopes of the thirsty for a supply of booze by that means. What next?

Out of the Old House Into the New.

It was a big, bustling, forward-looking city on the west coast. The campaign for prohibition was going ahead with a swing which promised a dry victory. A certain citizen, opposed to prohibition, asserted loudly and repeatedly, "If this state goes dry, I won't stand it. I'll go somewhere else. I'LL MOVE OUT!" The state went dry by a good majority and later, in reply to an attempt on the part of the wets to change the law, re-asserted by a largely-increased majority its determination to be absolutely dry.

Did our friend of wet proclivities "move out?" Yes, he did. He moved his old "shack" off his lot, built a new house, and moved into it. New house, new furniture, new clothes for the family, "good eats" and happiness; and now you could not persuade our friend to "move out." Though dry, "the little old U. S. is good enough" for him. And as for his family, they think it's an annex to Heaven.—The Union Signal.

Competition Will Sober World.

Prophesying that England, France and Germany would "go dry" within the present generation, Bishop Thomas Nicholson stirred the members of the Rock River Conference, which met recently in Chicago.

"Europe drunk can never compete with the United States sober," Bishop Nicholson declared, as quoted by the press.

"You stand by your guns and make it true that the United States is dry, and we shall then have a sober England, France and Germany before our children die." The same is true of every wet nation in the world. "Not long ago I talked with one of the leaders of the dry forces," he continued, "and he told me he had heard English industrial leaders warn the people that they must choose between prohibition or industrial death, one declaring that if the United States made good in becoming dry the United Kingdom would have to do the same within twenty years or go out of business.

How Not to Take Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled, and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

Pilchard Gets 3 Years In House of Correction

The trial of John A. Pilchard, a farmer of Stockton, for the first-degree murder of Stephen H. Long, of Pocomoke, superintendent of the colored schools of Worcester County and highly respected by both races, was held in Cambridge this week, the defendant claiming he could not get a fair trial in Worcester County.

Pilchard admitted the killing at the trial, but claimed he did it to save his brother's life. The testimony was entirely different from what had been previously published about the case, and the prisoner was found guilty only of manslaughter, and sentenced to three years in the House of Correction.

MODERN DAY MIRACLES

How Twentieth Century Scientists Have Rubbed the Magi's Lamp and Made the Age-old Dream of Alchemy Come True

(Told in Eight Sketches)
By JOHN RAYMOND

No. I
THE AGE OF CHEMISTRY

Within the last few years the world has been electrified by the vast strides made in the field of science by the creative chemist. Indeed, within a generation the influence exerted upon the entire fabric of our civilization from within the laboratory has been so enormous that we are prepared at last to accept the oft-repeated statement that we have passed beyond the age of machinery and have entered into the more mysterious age of chemistry.

What this new era is to bring forth in the way of scientific discovery rests upon conjecture, but certainly, the miracles performed in the last half century have been sufficient to warrant almost any expectancy.

America has heard that Germany's chemists saved her from an early disastrous defeat, both in the field and in the matter of obtaining supplies. Without the tremendous expansion of her plants for the production of nitrates and ammonia from the air by processes developed by her great chemists the war, without question, would have ended years before it did, as a result of the exhaustion of Germany's explosives, if not from the exhaustion of her food supplies because of the lack of fertilizer for her fields. So great, in fact, have been the accomplishments in the last few years that scientists now declare that a nation without applied chemistry will be "defenseless in war and laggards in peace."

Previously unheard of scientific feats have been reported from the laboratory, but because of necessity, they were performed so quietly they were robbed of their glamor and their trappings of romance while lesser achievements on the field of battle and in the council chambers of diplomats have been hailed by throngs.

Those of us who have left the classroom and the study hall far behind find it difficult, lacking technical knowledge, to comprehend this swift transition from one era to another, an amazing period when the nations of the world are making serious plans to scrap their worthless armies and navies, depending for protection entirely upon the subtle but deadly agencies developed secretly in chemical laboratories.

We who are not chemists hear strange tales these days, no less strange because they are true, of rubies and amber, ornaments of ivory, shimmering silks, colors of every hue, and exotic perfumes—once the precious cargo of desert caravans—produced from a substance as ordinary as coal tar.

Truly, chemistry has descended into the depths of the earth and extracted the secret formula of nature. The modern researcher, by constant diligence and untiring effort, has performed the mysteries which kept the alchemist of other centuries groping in the dark and branded him as one allied with the devil himself. The researcher, in finding in coal tar, not only things of beauty, but remedies for most human ills, has outdreamed the alchemist by transforming a base substance into something far more precious than gold.

From this black, sticky mass he adorns M'lady with colors rivalling nature itself in their barbaric splendor. He distils perfumes that equal the jasmine and he makes terrifying gases that one day will make war unthinkable. Thousands of articles upon which we depend, from TNT to paving blocks, from attar of roses to fertilizer, and from illumination gas to royal purple, are derived from the same substance.

As recently as 1700 a man who dared to say that he could produce a ruby from a lump of coal would have been accused of practicing the black art and doubtless would have ended his career at the stake. In three centuries we have gone far. To-day we accept these miracles but few of us know how the miracles are wrought. And yet there is no mystery.

The succeeding sketches will show how the accidental discovery of an English boy at work in a laboratory in 1850 started the development of creative chemistry, and will tell how it is possible to produce a silk purse, a bottle of perfume, the colors of the rainbow, a variety of medicines, foodstuffs and poisons, all from the same material.

Our country's prosperity was built up by industry and thrift. Our forbears had a lust for work and accomplishment. Instead of this our youth of today are seeking easy ways of subsistence, when there is no such thing as an easy way except at the expense of their own and our country's future.—Theodore Vail.

RECIPES WORTH SAVING.

Those who do not enjoy a thick mayonnaise will like this salad dressing, which will keep indefinitely.

Boiled Salad Dressing.—Beat the yolks of seven eggs until thick and lemon-colored; drop three tablespoonfuls of olive oil slowly, beating continually; add one-half cupful of melted butter and continue beating; add one-half cupful of vinegar and the juice of one lemon, slowly. Cook in a double boiler until it coats the spoon. Remove from the heat and sift in the following ingredients, which have been thoroughly blended: One and one-half tablespoonfuls of mustard, one-half teaspoonful of white pepper, one-eighth teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Mix well and, when using the dressing, add whipped cream.

Potato Salad.—Boil eight medium-sized potatoes in their jackets, peel and cut in one-quarter-inch cubes; add two cucumbers, cut in the same sized cubes, one cupful of blanched and shredded almonds, two tablespoonfuls each of red and green peppers, chopped fine, with one small onion, also chopped. Serve with the above boiled dressing.

Beet Salad.—Take a pint or more of the small cooked beets, finely diced, add one pound of shelled pecans, broken in bits; serve with the boiled dressing, colored a light pink, using the beet liquor. The beets are best if marinated for several hours in a small amount of French dressing.

French Dressing.—Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a dash of cayenne to three tablespoonfuls of oil and one of vinegar; mix well before using.

Chicken Salad.—Cut cold boiled fowl into half-inch dice; add an equal quantity of tender celery, cut in pieces, one cupful of broken bits of hickory nut meats. Chop the skin of the chicken very fine and add to the salad. Mix well with a boiled dressing and garnish with hard-cooked eggs cut in eighths, and curled celery.

HOUSE REJECTS HARDING'S PLEA

Vote 201 to 173 Keeps 50% Levy as Set by Senate, 94 Republicans Joining Democrats.

PRESIDENT IS CRITICISED

Reading of His Letter to Chairman Fordney Evokes Protest from Members of Both Parties—Harding Fails to Turn Surtax Tide.

Washington.—Disregarding the expressed wish of President Harding, the House voted 201 to 173, to accept the Senate amendment to the Tax Revision bill fixing the maximum income surtax rate at 50 per cent on incomes of $200,000 or more.

Ninety-four Republicans, most of them from the Middle and Far West, joined with the practically solid Democratic minority in supporting the amendment.

Announcement of the result brought applause from both sides of the chamber, with some of the Democrats breaking into cheers.

Before the vote was taken the House listened to the reading of a letter from President Harding to Chairman Fordney, of the Ways and Means Committee, suggesting that the House and Senate compromise. The Executive said he still believed the original House rate of 32 per cent was "nearer to a just levy and the more promising one in returns to the public treasury," but that in view of the legislative situation he thought it "wholly desirable" that there he a compromise at 40 per cent.

Immediately after it became known that the President had written Mr. Fordney, spokesmen for the "insurgent" Republicans said the letter would not affect the result. They had claimed a total of ninety-three Republican votes, or one les sthan was cast for the amendment.

Among the majority members supporting the amendment were Chairman Campbell, of the Rules Committee; Representative Green, of Iowa, ranking Republican, on the Ways and Means Committee, and Chairman Haugen, of the Agriculture Committee.

This vote settled the biggest issue between the House and Senate on the Tax Revision bill.

The intervention of the President in the tax revision fight—the second since the Ways and Means Committee began drafting the measure three and a half months ago—followed a visit to the White House of Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, the Republican leader in the House. The President then summoned Chairman Fordney and Representative Longworth, of Ohio, of the Ways and Means Committee, and expressed his views on the surtax. These were supplemented by a letter to Mr. Fordney.

During the three hours' debate in the House, which was conducted under a special rule, the President was attacked for writing Mr. Fordney.

The roll call of the House gave the following ninety-four Republicans voting in favor of the Senate amendment to the tax bill settling the maximum levy at 50 per cent on income surtaxes:

Anderson, Andrews, Nebraska; Anthony, Barbour, Beck, Begg, Beeham, Bird, Boies, Brennan, Brooks, Illinois; Browne, Wisconsin; Burtness, Campbell, Kansas; Chalmers, Christopherson, Clague, Classon, Cole, Ohio; Colton, Cooper, Wisconsin; Cramton, Curry, Davis, Minnestota; Denison, Dickinson, Dowell, Evans, Faust, Foster, Frear, Fuller, Funk, Gensman, Graham, Illinois; Green, Iowa; Haugen, Hoch, Hull, James, Johnson, South Dakota; Kearns, Keller, Kelly, Pennsylvania; Ketcham, King, Kinkaid, Kleczka, Kopp, Lampert, Lawrence, Limeberger, Little, McCormick, McLaughlin, Nebraska; Maloney, Moore, Ohio; Morgan, Murphy, A. DOCTOR HERMES

Probable German Ambassador to the United States.

It is definitely stated in German majority Socialist circles that Dr. Hermes, German food minister, will be appointed ambassador to the United States.

TWELFTH AMERICAN GOOD ROADS CONGRESS

Foremost Authorities of the World on Highway Construction Will Meet in Chicago.

Chicago.—Twenty thousand delegates, representing 48 states of the Union, 10 Canadian provinces and 5,000 American and Canadian cities, 3,000 counties, 847 good roads associations, engineering societies and automobile clubs and 834 commercial organizations and coming not only from the United States and Canada, but South America, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, the Virgin Islands and other territories, will gather in this city January 17, 18, 19 and 20 for the twelfth American good roads congress and thirteenth national good roads exposition, to be held at the Coliseum under the auspices of the American Road Builders' Association.

The program, in which the foremost authorities of the world on highway construction will participate, will cover not only all phases of the construction of concrete, asphalt, brick, macadam and gravel roads, but road contracts, taxation, bond issues, highway administration and maintenance, highway transportation, traffic regulation and safety on the highways. The entire Coliseum and Annex have already been reserved by exhibitors at the exposition, making it necessary to lease adjoining buildings in order to house the overflow. The delegates will be entertained with races and tugs of war between giant road rollers and tractors, banquets, balls, theater parties, band concerts, tours of the city and other events.

For the first time women road builders will participate, the delegates including Dr. Jennie C. Murphy, woman street commissioner of Yankton, S. D.; and Miss Eva Cressy, a woman road contractor of Everett, Mass.

STATE CAPITAL

Millions For Highways.

Annapolis.—Nearly $11,000,000—to be exact, $10,900,000—will be required for road construction and maintenance in Maryland for the two-year period beginning October 1, 1922—that is, for the State's fiscal years of 1923 and 1924. Such is the estimate by John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Federal, State and county funds will be represented in this amount. Federal funds, which will be used for construction, will of course come from Federal appropriation. They will be matched dollar for dollar with State money. County funds, to be used in construction, will also be matched on the 50-50 basis by State money.

Money for maintenance will be supplied from the receipts of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office.

For the fiscal year of 1923 the Roads Commission's requisition may thus be itemized:

Maintenance (from Motor Vehicle Commissioner's receipts)		$2,100,000
Construction:
Bond issue	$1,500,000
From budget	100,000
	$1,600,000
From counties	750,000
Federal aid	850,000
		3,200,000
Total for 1923.		$5,300,000

For the fiscal year of 1924 the items will be identical, except that $2,400,000 will be asked for maintenance, making the total for the year $5,600,000, or the aggregate for the two years, $10,900,000.

In addition a bond issue for bridge construction will be asked for 1923. The amount of the proposed issue has not been decided; it will probably be for several hundred thousand dollars.

The position taken by the Roads Commission is that the net receipts from the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office—money which comes from motorists—should be devoted entirely to road maintenance and that none of it should be diverted into the State treasury to be used for other purposes.

May Tax Gas For Autos.

In a conference at Annapolis between Governor Ritchie, John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission; William Milnes Maloy chairman, and Major Ezra B. Whitman, of the Public Service Commission, and Col. E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Mr. Mackall advocated the imposition by the State of a tax of 1 cent on every gallon of gasoline used by motorists. This tax, Mr. Mackall approximated, would increase the State's revenues by about $1,000,000 a year. He figured somewhat as follows:

There are 130,000 automobiles in the State, each averaging 10,000 miles a year, or a total of 1,300,000,000 automobile miles a year. Assuming 13 miles to the gallon of gasoline, 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline are consumed yearly, and a cent a gallon tax on this amount would be $1,000,000 a year. The proposal had been previously discussed by the heads of the three departments represented at the conference with the Governor and they all signified their approval of the idea.

Mr. Mackall said that the following States already have the tax: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Kentucky, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Georgia.

Wide Changes Proposed.

Out of discussion of budget requests before Governor Ritchie cropped up four important questions of State policy, at least three of which almost certainly will be put up to the next Legislature for decision.

These four questions are:

First, whether the State shall continue to pay the expenses of the Public Service Commission or whether the public service corporations shall be assessed for all expenses incidental to their regulation.

Second, whether the present automobile license fees, based on horsepower, shall be continued or whether they shall be supplemented and ultimately replaced by a tax on gasoline.

Third, whether the present State police force shall continue as at present constituted—that is, as deputies under the Automobile Commissioner — or whether a separate and enlarged unit, built on military lines, shall be established to take the place of the present organization.

Fourth, whether the State shall issue bonds to carry out its obligations to those counties which, under a previous administration of the State Roads Commission, did not receive the proportion of State funds due them, or whether these obligations shall be allowed to continue.

Chesterton. — Joseph Walbert, of Rock Hall, was killed by one of two racing automobiles. He was walking along the side of the road. The two racing cars, it is charged, hurried away. Charles Hadaway and Morris Jones, each driving cars, stopped and picked up Mr. Walbert and hurried him to Dr. Beall's office. The police boat was secured and arrangements were made to take him to Baltimore, but he died before the start was made. Mr. Walbert leaves five children.

"X-Rays" and Finger Prints.

The modern detective makes use of X-rays. The subject's fingers are dipped into a metallic solution and then gently wiped with a soft cloth. In this way the metal is removed from the "ridges," but allowed to remain in the "furrows" of the fingertips. When an X-ray photograph is taken, the latter show up as clear, sharp, distinct lines. As the photograph can be very greatly enlarged, the most minute peculiarities are distinctly seen.

EASY TO START "HARD TIMES"

Rumor Becomes an Endless Chain Once the Proper Impetus Has Been Given to It.

In Paris a portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine. His first small bottle finished, he was about to order more when his eye fell on a headline in the Figaro, "Hard Times Are Coming," so instead of ordering his usual second bottle he called for his check.

"Is there anything wrong with the wine?" asked the landlord.

"The wine is good, but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize," explained the artist.

"Hard times," said the landlord. "Then my wife must not order the silk dress we planned, but must take one of cotton."

"Hard times," repeated the dressmaker when the order was canceled. "This is no time to expand. I must not make the improvements I had planned in the place."

"Hard times, eh?" said the builder when the dressmaker canceled the building plans. "Then I cannot have my wife's portrait painted."

So he wrote to the artist and canceled his order.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him. On a nearby chair was the paper in which he had read of hard times two days before. He picked it up to read more closely and found it was two years old!

Candy the Newest Industry.

The tremendous increase in the number of confectionery shops, the vast displays of sweet stuff which everywhere stagger the eye, mean that candy-eating has become one of our chief national industries, Arthur H. Folwell, writes in Leslie's. "Have you laid in your winter's supply of candy?" will soon be as common a question as, "Have you laid in your winter's coal?" Candy by the ton must soon be, if it is not already, the rule, and we shall have candy bins in our cellars to which chocolates and bonbons will merrily slide down iron chutes from the candy trucks. "Send us three ton of egg and nut mixed," will be an ordinary telephone order to a confectioner. Inevitably, too, we shall read of rank extortion practiced upon the poor, who have to buy their candy by the pail.

BAD WEATHER WILL TEST YOUR LEATHER

THE "Atlantic" shoe is sold by shoe dealers in practically all parts of this country. There are many different styles and leathers, but every pair is made of good leather throughout. The style pictured here is only one of the many available to consumers in quest of honest foot wear.

Each of the twenty-five specialty factories of the Friedman-Shelby concern produces a particular line of shoes, but in none of them are substitutes for leather ever used. Good, LEATHER-BUILT footwear assures the best wearing quality, and you will find by insisting on the Friedman-Shelby ALL-LEATHER trade-mark that your footwear expense will be less at the end of the year—less "per day of service."

The Atlantic Shoe for Men — FRIEDMAN-SHELBY BRANCH International Shoe Company Makers :: St. Louis — The Pacific Shoe for Women

Come in and inspect our stock of Atlantic shoes. Also allow us to refer you to the many men in Berlin who have given these shoes thorough tests and who have been convinced of their wearing quality to such an extent that they are confining their purchases to this line.

Aside from the excellent quality of these shoes the outstanding feature is the price. An All-Leather shoe bearing the Friedman-Shelby guarantee, equipped with a rubber heel for $4.95 per pair.

Surely there was never a bigger bargain.

AN APOLOGY.

We feel as though an apology is due our many prospective purchasers of Men's work Shoes in view of the fact that we have had practically no Men's work Shoes for sale for about three weeks.

Demand Exceeds Supply.

The Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co's. factories are doing their utmost to supply their dealers with shoes and despite the fact that they manufacture 110,000 pairs every day they can not cope with the demand. This alone proves the popularity of the "All-Leather" line.

We are assured that every effort is being made to furnish us with the shoes on back-order and we are anticipating a large shipment very soon.

The efforts of the railroad executives to obtain a reduction in wages to the basis prevailing before March 1, 1920, when the roads were returned by the government, will be continued. Each road will deal individually with its employees. The thirty-day notice to the employees, as required by law, that a reduction in wages is contemplated has been ordered distributed by all roads.

The National Association of Railway Executives, representing 291 roads, met in the board room at the Grand Central Terminal. More than 95 per cent of the membership was present in person or represented.

Traffic moving wholly within New England is excepted from the reduction. This was conceded, it was said, because of the bad condition under which those railroads are operating.

LATEST EVENTS AT WASHINGTON

Great displeasure has arisen in high official quarters in Washington over the activities of certain officers of the navy who have been trying to decry the efforts of their Government to effect a real and substantial limitation of heavy naval armaments.

ANTI-BEER BILL PASSES SENATE

If President Signs, All Brew, Even for Medicine, Will Be Stopped Immediately.

TEST TO SUPREME COURT

Prevents Importation of All Liquors Till Present Supply is Smaller—Survives Hard Fight—Seizure Without Warrant Created a Storm.

Washington.—The Volstead supplemental enforcement measure eliminating the use of beer for medicinal purposes was approved by the Senate. The vote was 56 to 22. The result had for weeks been accepted as a foregone conclusion. The opposition strength did not exceed previous estimates.

The twenty-two Senators who voted to reject the conference report on the Beer and Wine Bill were Brandegee, Broussard, du Pont, Edge, Gerry, Johnson, King, La Follette, Lodge, McLean, Penrose, Phipps, Pomerene, Ransdell, Shields, Shortridge, Stanley, Underwood, Wadsworth, Walsh of Massachusetts, Watson of Georgia and Weller.

The indorsement of the Senate completes action on the Beer and Wine Bill. It now goes to the President. The manufacture and sale of beer under existing regulations must cease immediately upon his signature.

The act is regarded by many legal authorities as unconstitutional. Test cases will be prepared at the earliest opportunity and the new law will be brought before the United States Supreme Court for an opinion.

Following the passage of the report, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, gave out a statement in which he declared:

"The passage of the Anti-Beer Bill is a victory for law, for enforcement, and it blasts all hopes for the return of both beverage and medicinal beer."

These are the high points of the act as outlined by Mr. Wheeler:

"It prohibits prescribing beer or malt liquors for medicinal purposes.

"Not more than one-fourth gallon of [illegible] liquor or [illegible] liquor separately or in the aggregate containing more than half a pint of alcohol may be prescribed in ten days.

"Physicians are limited to 100 prescriptions in ninety days, unless extraordinary reasons are presented.

"Preparations of spirituous or vinous liquor is prohibited until the amount on hand shall not be sufficient to supply the current need for non-beverage use.

"The tax on liquor stolen or destroyed shall not be collected from the owner or the loser if theft did not occur as the result of negligence or collusion or fraud on the part of the owner or person legally accountable for same.

"Private residences may not be searched without a search warrant. Officers who, without probable cause and maliciously, search any place without a search warrant are penalized. Persons who impersonate officers enforcing the Prohibition Act are heavily penalized."

Senators Stanley, Broussard and those who led the fight against the measure insist that its provisions can be construed to permit search and seizure without a warrant and that the Bill of Rights in the Constitution has been impaired, if not destroyed.

Senators Wadsworth and Brandegee made the concluding addresses in opposition of the bill, holding its provisions unconstitutional. Sterling and McKellar spoke for the measure.

If President Harding approves the act the Treasury will amend its present regulations to conform with it and the sale of beer as a medicine will be stopped forthwith. Officials of the department, however, anticipate that the question will be fought out in the courts on the constitutionality of he law before its final disposition.

At the White House officials declined to intimate what President Harding will do with the measure.

Hyattsville.—A successful 'possum hunt, participated in by G. Hodges Carr, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Hyattsville; George T. and George L. Sellers and Andrew Haber and Andrew Barr, threatened to come to grief when a skunk was discovered. The skunk, however, was put into its den. The party treed five 'possums, bagging four.

Hagerstown.—Receivers were asked here in a bill of complaint filed by Edward F. Shaffer against Robert R Faber, trading as Shaffer, Faber & Co., one of the largest book and stationery stores in the city. Hagerstown.—One of the most important questions to be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce, which is being reorganized for a three-year term, is the question of a change in the form of government of Hagerstown. There is a growing sentiment here for a commission form of government with a city manager at the head. For several months there has been a movement under way for a revision of the City Charter, some sections of which have become antiquated and are no longer practicable. Committees to take up the work of having the charter revised and to formulate plans for drawing up a measure calling for a new form of government to be presented at the session of the General Assembly have been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce. In the event of the passage of the bill it is proposed to submit the measure to the voters of the city at the municipal election in March.

Hyattsville.—Miss Esther Simmonds, of Hyattsville, is the winner of the voting contest to determine the most popular girl in this community, which was one of the principal features of the Mardi Gras celebration under the auspices of Company F, local National Guard, which ended after being in progress one week. Miss Simmonds received 4,100 votes and was awarded a diamond ring. Miss Dorothy Hutchinson and Miss Ruth Reeley, of Hyattsville, were second and third, respectively, with 3,100 and 2,450 votes.

Mechanism of Glaciers.

In tunneling through glaciers during the Alpine operations of the war, opportunity was offered for observations of inner structure and movements. In shallow cuttings, characteristics only to be expected at much greater depths were found. The alternation of lighter and denser layers cannot here be caused by pressure, but must be a primary, sedimentary formation. Interior crevasses often ended in a plane of stratification, thus pointing to the importance of such planes in the glacier mechanism.

Red Cross Activities.

Red Cross workers are now putting their Red Cross machines, used with such splendid success in France and in American Hospitals, into practical industrial use.

Under the direction of Major M. J. Shields, local social workers will be taught how to administer first-aid, how to prevent accidents and to pass on the Red Cross doctrines to their fellow-workmen. In this manner it is hoped to reduce industrial casualties to a minimum.

Major Shields, who makes his headquarters in Washington, is now instructing a class of 17 employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of the North Exchange, 14th and R Streets northwest. For some time the company has been using Red Cross text in teaching its employees how to save a life, but recently the society placed its full knowledge and service at the company's disposal. The Telephone officials, realizing that the new efforts could be improved upon by the organization that accomplished such a gigantic task as it did, not only during the war, but in other emergency periods of the past 70 years, willingly accepted the proposition made by Major Shields.

Major Shields is a pioneer in first-aid work, having begun to teach it in 1910. His first efforts were among the miners and railroad men, and among various organizations. He made a study of emergency injuries and always made it a practice when giving instruction to stress the importance of preventing accidents, rather than having to treat them after they happened.

During the war, he served in the Medical Corps of the regular army and rendered considerable help in instructing men how to administer first aid on the battle field.

A telegraph line to the moon, a telephone connection with the planet Mars, the use of wireless telegraphy and demonstrations of various means of communication with other worlds, real or imaginary, are to render obsolete nearly all present methods of communication, it was declared by Prof. Michael I. Pupin, of Columbia University, in an address before the Institute of Electrical Engineers in New York. Of course, he said, it will be many years before these things can be accomplished, but they may come.

OWNERS CAN GET 1922 TAGS NOW

MOTOR VEHICLE COMMISSIONER BAUGHMAN SENDS OUT APPLICATIONS TO AVOID CONGESTION.

Applications Being Mailed Out At Rate Of 20,000 Daily During This Month.

To obviate if possible the congestion which in past years has swamped the office force, multiplied the chance for error, and caused delay to the motorist and confusion in the office, Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman started on Monday of this week the machinery for registering and licensing nearly 150,000 motor vehicles owned in Maryland. Every car must be registered and receive license tags for 1922. Where the motorist co-operates with the Commissioner's force and takes advantage of the early start, registration and actual issuance of the license tags will begin on Thursday, December 1st.

The new 1922 license tags will be blue and white and in sharp contrast to the old ones. The numerals in white will be on a dark blue background. In order that the mails and the office channels may not become clogged either with the outing application blanks or when these are mailed in after being filled in by the applicant and to forestall as much as possible congestion when the registration certificate and the metal tags are sent out, the application blanks will be released each day until November 28th in blocks of 20,000 daily.

Last year great confusion was caused and much delay resulted through many of the applicants, when they received their blanks, tearing off and retaining the registration coupon. This coupon is useless until it has been returned to the office of Commissioner Baughman and there had stamped upon it the number of the metal license tag for that particular car.

Deputy Automobile Commissioner Schroeder this week pointed out that what the applicant must do with the application blanks before returning them is:

First, sign the application, second, insert the number of the operator's chauffeur's license card, and third, insert the name of the anti-glare headlight device with which the car is equipped. This information must be written in in ink and the application be remailed to the office of the Commissioner with the required fee.

"This department would like to impress as firmly as possible upon car owners the saving in time and inconvenience to themselves as well as to this office which will result in immediate remailing of these application blanks. This should be done immediately rather than waiting until the time the applicant would ordinarily wait to apply for tags. Co-operation now will save the rush in the last week of the year. This will save the applicant from having to delay several days into the new year before being able to use his or her car," said Mr. Schroeder.

Mr. Schroeder added that if the instructions are carried out properly and no errors have been made and the proper fee enclosed, the new license plates and the next year's registration card will be mailed out the same day it is received beginning on December 1st. This will give every motorist the entire month of December in which to adjust any errors or mistakes which may have been made in the original application.

It was pointed out by Mr. Schroeder that the habit of a great number of motorists of postponing their application for license until after Christmas day results in an accumulation of such a rush of work as is physically impossible for the clerical force at the office of the Commissioner to handle fully, even when the force works day and night, as it has had to do for several years past, results in congestion and delays for the applicant. Such a rush also multiplies the chance for errors which it takes further time to straighten out.

A telegraph line to the moon, a telephone connection with the planet Mars, the use of wireless telegraphy and demonstrations of various means of communication with other worlds, real or imaginary, are to render obsolete nearly all present methods of communication, it was declared by Prof. Michael I. Pupin, of Columbia University, in an address before the Institute of Electrical Engineers in New York. Of course, he said, it will be many years before these things can be accomplished, but they may come.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 27

PAUL'S VOYAGE AND SHIPWRECK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 27:1-44.

GOLDEN TEXT—I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.—II Tim. 1:12.

REFERENCE MATERIAL — II Cor. 11:23-28; Phil. 4:12, 13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Shipwreck.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in a Shipwreck.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Storm and Shipwreck.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Power Over Men.

I. A Stormy Voyage (vv. 1-20).

1. The ship. A ship of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company. Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, are permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship (v. 7).

3. The storm. The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Havens (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. The gentle south wind deceived them, so they loosed from Crete, only to be soon overtaken by the tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon. They did everything possible to save the ship. They took up the boat which was towed behind; they bound great cables around the ship to strengthen it for the storm; they lightened the ship by bringing down from the masts and rigging everything that was superfluous; and finally, the cargo and tackling of the ship itself were thrown overboard. All this seemed to be of no avail, so that all hope of being saved was removed. It seemed that wicked men and material forces were combined to prevent the great apostle from reaching Rome. However, this is only apparent, for these very experiences were overruled by God to bring good cheer and salvation to many on the way. We should remember that tempestuous winds, as well as the soft breezes, await God's faithful ones. The presence of storms does not prove that we are going the wrong way.

II. Paul's Serene Faith (vv. 21-26).

To a man who did not know God, the failure of the sun and stars to shine for many days, the fading of all hope, was natural; but to the man of faith, hope still burns brightly. God is just as near to His own in the midst of a stormy sea as in their quiet homes.

Note Paul's behavior:

1. His rebuke for their failure to heed his advice at Fair Havens (v. 21). This was not a mere taunt, but a reference to the wisdom of his former advice urging them to give him a more respectable hearing.

2. Bids them be of good cheer (v. 22). He inspired them with hope.

3. He promises them safety (v. 22). Though the ship would go to pieces, every man's life would be saved.

4. The source of his information (vv. 23, 24). The angel of God had revealed it unto him.

5. The reason of Paul's calm faith (v. 23). "Whose I am and whom I serve."

III. The Ship's Crew All Safe on Land (vv. 27-44).

This was exactly as the Lord had said. We can rest assured that all God has spoken shall come to pass, even though there be a broken ship, brutal soldiers and a perfidious crew. Aside from the fulfillment of God's promise, the most important part of this section is the splendid sanity which characterizes Paul's action on the way. Two things especially mark his sanctified common sense.

1. His vigilance had detected that the sailors had planned to escape. He knew how much they would be needed presently, and at once took steps to prevent their escape. He went straight to the man in charge and said, "Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved." He practiced the truth that genuine reliance upon God is the all-powerful incentive to human action. God's ends always include the means for their accomplishment.

2. He knew that the famishing condition of the people was not the most favorable for the physical struggle which was soon to be undergone by them when they must struggle through the water to the shore. So he gets them to take a substantial breakfast. He had the good sense to look after that which was necessary. It was no time to talk to these men about their souls, for their bodies needed the main attention. His prayer for that meal had more effect upon the people than his preaching would have had. Let us learn from this the divine method of administration, namely, God overruling while man trusts Him and acts. A vigorous faith manifests itself in reasonable action.

Peopled the Holy City.

And the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem; the rest of the people also cast lots, to bring one of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, the holy city, and nine parts to dwell in other cities. And the people blessed all men, that willingly offered themselves to dwell at Jerusalem—Nehemiah, 11:1 and 2.

At War Against the Soul.

Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.—I Peter 2: 11.

WOULD PRESERVE OLD HOUSE

Plans Made for Restoring Structure, Said to Be the Oldest in the Northwest.

Plans are being laid by the Vancouver Historical society to preserve the old Covington house at Orchards, six miles from this little town. The house is said to be the oldest in the northwestern part of the United States. It is of logs and is in a ruinous condition, being used as a sheepfold. The historical society expects to restore it.

The cabin was built early in the last century by Richard Covington, an employee of the Hudson's Bay company, when Fort Vancouver was the capital of the fur company on the western side of the Rocky mountains. It was the first schoolhouse in the Northwest. Covington taught the children of fur company employees and settlers there. Mrs. Elizabeth Bird, eighty-five years of age, still living in Clarke county, Washington, was married in it in 1858 by Chaplain John McCarty, stationed at Fort Vancouver. This was a short time after U. S. Grant, after his return from the Mexican war, visited the fort.

When Fort Vancouver was owned by the Hudson's Bay company, the company was ruler of three-fourths of the North American continent. Its dominion extended from Labrador to the Pacific and from the Arctic ocean to the Spanish settlements in California. It moved its western headquarters to Fort Victoria on Vancouver island during the dispute between England and the United States over the Oregon boundary line. It surrendered its sovereignty to Canada in 1870.

Parachutes Rescue Flyer.

Wireless and aeronautic science were recently employed in a very timely combination which saved the life of an air-service cadet flying from Mather field, California, over Crater National forest in Oregon, according to an article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. While in the neighborhood of Crater lake, the spark plugs ceased working in the engine of his plane, and landing was necessary. Choice in landing places was confined to either the rugged mountain peaks below or a small island of black lava in the middle of the lake. After some deliberation he chose the latter and made a landing in the huge cliff-rimmed cup. The plucky pilot then set his radio outfit in operation and after many hours of waiting, rescue planes arrived carrying the necessary spark plugs. Adverse air currents within the great "moon hole" prohibited the descent of the rescuers, and so the plugs were attached to parachutes and dropped. The lost pilot placed the plugs, started his engine and made a perilous take-off over the lake surface.

Appreciation.

The mayor of a Southern town had been asked to assist in the annual entertainment given at Christmas to the inmates of the local workhouse. He consented, with great complaisance and went and made up as Father Christmas. For a time his antics and pranks were the delight of the company.

A damper on his enjoyment was, however, eventually brought forward by a scrap of conversation he chanced to overhear.

"Isn't he enjoying himself?" remarked one old man to another. "What a treat it is for the likes of him! But why can't they let all the loonies out on a night like this?"

"Well," replied the other, "mebbe they ain't all so harmless as this'n!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Peaceful Scenes on Battlefield.

A marvelous change has come over the battlefields of Gallipoli. There are very few evidences of the great conflict which was waged there, and the landscape is dotted with herds and picturesque shepherds. Occasionally one will come across a pile of wire or other debris as a reminder of the presence of the armies. The land is to a great extent under tillage or being prepared for crops.

Your "Tip" to the Thief.

In a crowd the thief will often raise a cry of "watch out for pickpockets," and immediately everyone will raise his hand to the pocket in which he carries his money. The thief watches closely and thereupon, is informed just where you carry your wealth. The hip pocket is said to be the most unsafe place for valuables as it is the most easily reached by the thief.

The Joy of Temptation

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE

Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.—Jas. 1:2-4.

There is a philosophy of life which expresses itself in the words, "Grin and bear it." Its most recent development is manifest in the appointment of "Smile 'em up" committees. This attitude may have some value. It is surely better than complaint and moroseness. But it falls infinitely short of the plane of Christian living which comes into view in this Scripture—"Count it all joy when ye fall into manifold temptations."

The word "temptation" means trial or testing. It is a test of character, not an incitement to wrongdoing. Sometimes these testings are unlooked for, so that we are said "to fall" into them. They are "manifold." This refers to their variety rather than their number. They are many sided, many colored; some severe, others mild, some prolonged, others brief. They give occasion for every sort of joy. This is the literal meaning of the words "all joy." We are to count it every sort of joy when we "fall into" these "manifold temptations."

But how can we do this? Only by knowing that the test patiently endured will lead to a great triumph, the triumph of faith and of a strong enduring character which is the result of faith.

Faith is the most precious and powerful thing in the world. Its education is of untold importance. A returned missionary from Tibet recently said in a public address, "God is looking everywhere for men and women who will trust Him. Trust is developed through trial. Under divine direction, Moses led the Israelites to the Red sea that they might learn in experience the power of God to save, and that their trust in Him might be strengthened. Jesus took His disciples into a storm that through the test they might learn to trust, because of the experimental knowledge of His power to deliver.

Every trial is a test of faith. We never [illegible] outside. Every outward yielding is the expression and result of [illegible] within. The trial of faith [illegible] much more precious [illegible] that perisheth, [illegible] value in the world [illegible] hours, but in the [illegible] and character, faith [illegible] that [illegible] brings every noble [illegible]

All [illegible] utter push into [illegible] view. "We [illegible] glorify," says Paul, because [illegible] in our patience, steadfastness and [illegible] are Christian qualities, the [illegible] Christian character, the [illegible] which constitutes the [illegible] which makes all the tests worth while. When we become Christians, a new life from above is imparted to us. Every Christ-like and gracious quality is enfolded in this new life, even as the oak tree is wrapped up in the acorn. The unfolding and development of this life is the one big outstanding problem confronting us. Without the manifold temptations, the new life would be dwarfed and stunted. Because of their operation and result, the life is perfected, so that where patience has her perfect work the life stands "perfect and entire, wanting nothing." Somehow the Christian life develops best under adversity. All sunshine makes the desert. Life needs clouds in order to have a glorious sunset.

Another factor entering into the triumph emanating from the manifold temptations is the capacity to enjoy which those have who patiently endure the sufferings of this present time. They will best be able to enjoy the glories that shall be revealed in us. So then, there is reason to "count it all joy when ye fall into manifold temptations, knowing that the trial of your faith worketh patience." This is not mere passive submission, but rather endurance. It is the faith that does not shrink, the perseverance that does not falter under burdens. When this sort of patience is permitted to have a perfect work, perfection of life and character is reached, and this is the triumph that makes all endurance worth while and enables us to count it every sort of joy when we "fall into manifold temptations." It is possible to hinder this triumph unless the human will co-operates with the divine purpose. There is grace enough for this also, so that sufferings may be borne joyously as well as submissively.

David Laments Absalom's Death.

And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept; and as he went, thus he said, O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom! would God, I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!—II Samuel 18:33.

Things That Are in the World.

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.—I John 2:15.

REVOLT IN LOWER CALIFORNIA

Several Killed in Fighting in San Antonio Canyon.

San Diego, Cal.—Six members of a party of forty Mexicans are dead as a result of an uprising against the Mexican government troops in San Antonio Canyon, six miles south of Tia Juana, Lower California. In the skirmish four of the invading party were killed. Two were captured by the Federals and executed.

No Americans were permitted in the main part of Tia Juana.

Suppose.

Suppose a world of troubles do
Annoy you day by day;
Suppose that friends considered true
Your trust in them betray;
And rocks may bruise and thorns may tear
Your worn and weary feet,
And every day you meet a snare—
Keep sweet.

Suppose you have not each desire
That forms within your mind;
And earth denies you half your hire,
And heaven seems quite unkind;
And you have not the best to wear,
Nor yet the best to eat—
You seem to have the meanest fare—
Keep sweet.

A sour heart will make things worse
And harder still to bear,
A merry heart destroys the curse
And makes the heavens fair;
So I advise, whate'er your case—
Whatever you may meet,
Dwell on the good—forget the base—
Keep sweet.

—Selected.

The Loss That Is Gain.

"It is the effort to win, rather than the victory, which has real value," says Mr. Gladstone. "For while the victory in a competition may be the means of laying the mind asleep, and inducing it to rest upon what it has done, the effort, the true, honest, manful effort, whether it be successful or not, will have left you more competent and more vigorous for the discharge of every other duty, and better disposed to face and to grapple with the difficulties which in one shape or another must be your lot in life." And whoever thus strives is sure of the real victory in the end, no matter how near defeat or apparently defeated he may have been. And he will rejoice then; no matter how he went in the anguish of the struggle.

"Safe home, safe home in port!
Rent cordage, shattered deck,
Torn sails, provisions short,
And only not a wreck!
But oh! the joy upon the shore,
To tell our voyage perils o'er!

"The prize, the prize secure!
The athlete nearly fell;
Bore all he could endure,
And bore not always well.
But he may smile at troubles gone,
Who sets the victor-garland on!

"No more the foe can harm;
No more the leaguer'd camp;
And cry of night alarm
And need of ready lamp.
And yet how nearly he had failed—
How nearly had that foe prevailed!

God lets life be filled for us with this struggle, that we may be perfected by it, and win our crowns only after a struggle that shall make them of inestimable worth to us.—Forward.

Trades For Ministers.

A prominent Philadelphia clergyman strongly urges all young men who intend to enter the ministry to learn some trade either before or after their ordination. He has examined the statistics of the various Protestant denominations and has been appalled by the number of ministers who are without a charge. He thinks a trade would be a good thing to fall back on in such cases, besides standing the preacher in good stead in many ways while still in the pulpit.

When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Berlin women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail, make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Ask your neighbor. Here's proof of their merit in a Berlin woman's words:

Mrs. Wm. Baker, Washington St., says: "I don't know how I would have made out without Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys were weak and I would almost get down with my back. I had such awful pains in the small of my back, I couldn't keep on my feet to do my work. The least work tired me out, and I was hardly ever free from nervous headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills from Farlow's Pharmacy and they just suited my case, soon relieving me of the aches and pains and all symptoms of kidney complaint. I depend on Doan's whenever my kidneys trouble me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Baker had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Wanted—Eggs, in exchange fo subscriptions to the ADVANCE.

McWilliams' Liquified Ko-ko-nut Oil Shampoo

Is the outgrowth of many years of effort to perfect a shampoo that will add a luster to the hair and one which would eliminate entirely the burning, biting effect usually noticed in other shampoo articles. The Glycerine, which forms a part of this preparation, has a tendency to give healing qualities to its use. Leading hair dressing and barber shops have endorsed our shampoo and we feel safe in saying that if given a trial, you will use no other.

A Telephone System Must Expand

THERE is no such thing as closing the capital account of a telephone system unless it proposes to go out of business. The telephone system that is not going forward is going backward.

Each new subscriber requires additional plant—a new telephone set, additional central office equipment, in most cases an additional line from the central office to the subscriber's premises.

But these additions cannot wait until the subscriber wants service. To do this would require that applicants wait sometimes for an indefinite period. We must anticipate the public's needs and always maintain a reserve plant—conduits, cables, switchboards, wires.

To meet the requirements for next year and the years to come the money for the extensions must be secured from the investors this year. Our earnings this year, then, will determine whether we can attract the new capital necessary to meet your requirements for service next year.

UNKNOWN HERO LAID TO REST

Buried Amid Highest Honors in All History, as Symbol of the Country's Fallen.

STIRRING MILITARY PAGEANT

President Officiates at Impressive Ceremonies at Capitol and Tomb. Leaders of Great Nations Join In Honoring Symbol.

Washington.—America buried her Unknown Warrior on Armistice Day—placed in the earth the body of that boy whose very namelessness symbolized 50,000 others who had given their lives for America on the field of battle in the World War.

Surrounded by the world's great, with none of them too great to bow in homage, this dead boy's funeral was still no pageant, no spectacular drama, no worldly show. It was more a benediction, a spiritual something whose very realities were less apparent than the thoughts they conjured.

Washington has witnessed many notable ceremonials, but never one like this. Its people saw the bodies of Lincoln and Garfield borne along the broad streets, and under cover of darkness, through a drizzling rain, had watched the solemn progress of that procession which followed the dead McKinley to the White House. There were tears of sorrow then. There were tears on this occasion, but most of those who shed them were carried away by the emotion of the symbolism of patriotism which this unknown American embodied.

Taken from that central spot in the Capitol's rotunda where before this only the bodies of Presidents had lain in state, and where it had been designed to place the body of George Washington, this fighting boy whose coffined figure stood for sacrifice to honor and patriotism was followed to his body's final resting place by statesmen, law-makers, law-givers, soldiers, sailors and many others, led by the President of the United States, all walking for part of that solemn journey close to the funeral caisson.

At Arlington, the nation's military Valhalla, in the low Virginia hills which form a background for the capital city, the Unknown Warrior was placed in a marble sarcophagus, designed to be a national shrine like that under the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, where an unknown poilu's body rests, and Westminster Abbey, where Britain's Unknown lies.

The place of burial is a lawn with grass still green overlooking the Potomac and the city beyond, the white dome of the Capitol and the tall shaft of the Washington Monument standing out conspicuously among the mass of buildings.

As the burial services were conducted there stood around the flag-draped casket men whose names are known throughout the world.

President Harding watched the final scene with uncovered head. Near him was ex-President Taft, now Chief Justice of the United States, stalwart and alert, in the vigor of health.

Ex-President Woodrow Wilson was not there as he had planned to be, but he rode in the funeral procession through the streets of Washington as far as the White House and received an ovation all along the route.

Foch, Marshal of France, stood beside the sarcophagus also. Near by General Pershing, head of America's war army, alert and handsome, the personification of soldierly appearance, watched the solemn scene. Aristide Briand, Premier of France, sturdy as the Breton fisherfolk from whom he came, was there, and with him Rene Viviani, whose premiership was all stress and storm. Admiral Lord Beatty, chief of the British naval warriors, was another to whom this scene must have brought memories of the World War.

Diaz, generalissimo of the Italian armies, and hailed by his people as the hero of the Piave; General Baron Jacques, Belgium's foremost soldier; General the Earl of Cavan, who commanded the British forces in Italy; American generals who led armies, corps and divisions in France, admirals of the American navy, and a host of others stood beside the unknown's grave.

Tokugawa, Prince of Japan, last of the militant Shoguns, watched closely this occidental scene, which had all the elements of appeal to the Oriental imagination.

Secretary Hughes was in the foreground with Weeks, secretary of war, and Denby, secretary of the navy, and behind them the other members of the cabinet. Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge stood near President Harding and Mrs. Harding. All these and others whose names are known in other lands stood silently by the caisson of the man who died for his country.

FIRED FOR POWDERING FACE

Teacher Appeals to Court From School's Blue Rules.

Knoble, Ark.—A writ of mandamus asking that she "be retored to her rights in the public schools" has been filed here by Miss Pearl Pugsley, eighteen years old, who says she was dismissed for using face powder. The school board issued a statement that no face powders, cosmetics, rouges, peek-a-boo waists, thin stockings or abbreviated skirts would be tolerated in the schools.

ROADS MOVE TO CUT WAGES

Railway Pay and Freight Rates Must Fall Together at Once, Say Executives in New York.

NO FEAR OF LABOR BOARD

Roads Move to Cut Wages $300,000,000 for Freight Saving—Commerce Commission to Be Consulted on Change in Tariffs.

New York.—The railroads intend to establish concurrent reductions in wages and freight rates without delay.

The 2,000,000 railway men in the United States will be notified by their respective managements of proposals carrying a new and further reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of train service employees and cutting all other classes of workers down to the going rates paid for similar kinds of work in non-transportation industries.

The resultant saving in operating expenses, estimated at between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000, will be passed on at once to shippers and the general public in horizontal reduction in freight charges.

Members of the Association of Railway Executives, representing more than 95 per cent of the railroad mileage in the United States, met in the board room of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to determine the quickest means of putting the issue of lower wages before the Railroad Labor Board and that of rates before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It was announced [illegible] the recently [illegible] the wage [illegible] affected [illegible] the railroads, of the Railroad Labor Board that no further wage revision for any class of employees would be considered until pending disputes over working rules have ben decided will deter the carriers. They will try to follow the decision of the Association of Railway Executives on October 14 to wipe out the remainder of the 22½ per cent wage increase of 1920 and immediately to translate the saving into decreased transportation charges.

The association designated its executive committee, headed by T. De Witt Cuyler, to confer formally with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington with reference to measures for obtaining and distributing equitably lower freight rates.

The action of the association was forecast plainly by decisions at a meeting of the Eastern presidents' conference at the Metropolitan Club, Fifth avenue and Sixtieth street, earlier in the day. Chief executives of fifty-two railroads embracing all the territory north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers attended.

These men determined that the Eastern carriers would lose no time in following the lead of the Western roads in sending out notifications of the proposed wage cuts. Similarly, preparations of the steam carriers of the Southeast and the Southwest are known to be so near completion that their notices will be posted also within a few days.

The committee of rail executives named to confer with the Interstate Commerce Commission follows:

Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, chairman, Association of Railway Executives; E. N. Brown, chairman, St. Louis, San Francisco and Pere Marquette; Howard Elliott, chairman, Northern Pacific; S. M. Felton, president, Chicago Great Western; Hale Holden, president, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman, Southern Pacific; Robert S. Lovett, chairman, Union Pacific; Samuel Rea, president, Pennsylvania Railroad; A. H. Smith, president, New York Central; W. B. Storey, president, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Alfred P. Thom, general counsel, Association of Railway Executives; Daniel Willard, president, Baltimore and Ohio, and Henry Walters, chairman, Atlantic Coast Line.

In addition to the executive committee, it is understood that the following traffic officials will join in the conference:

Chair Silencers.

In rooms where the floor is not covered with a soft carpet the moving of chairs is often the cause of a good deal of noise. The trouble may be remedied in this way: From thick felt cut small rounds to glue on to the feet of the chairs. These can be secured from an old hat or cut from an odd piece of floor covering. The chairs can then be moved about quietly even on the hardest floors.

Overcrowded Room.

A room that is overcrowded and hung with heavy draperies is bad for health. A bedroom should have plenty of windows and they should be kept open during the night.

POULTRY

GEESE QUITE EASILY RAISED

Kept Generally in Small Flocks on Farms and Purchased by Experienced Fatteners.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is a demand usually for young geese from June to January, although most of them are sold around Thanksgiving and Christmas. Ten-weeks-old goslings of the largest breeds of pure-bred geese weigh up to ten pounds when forced for rapid growth, and sometimes are profitably marketed at that age as green geese. Large cities containing a foreign population offer the best markets for geese.

Geese usually are killed and picked the same as other kinds of poultry, but are much more difficult to pick than chickens. Generally the veins in the back of the mouth are severed with a long-bladed knife, followed with a blow on the back of the head with a short club. The wings are picked to the first joint, and the feathers are removed from the neck half way to the head, pulling with the feathers and not back toward the head. The soft pin feathers and fine down may be removed partly by rubbing the body with moistened hands or by shaving the skin.

The dry picking of geese is rather difficult. The most common practice is to scald or steam the goose feathers before picking. This can be done over a wash boiler three-fourths full of boiling water, laying the dead goose on a burlap sack stretched tightly over the boiler, and steaming first the breast, then the back, and then each side. The whole process of steaming will not take more than two or three minutes, and the goose must be kept moving to prevent scalding the flesh. The goose is steamed until the feathers can be pulled out easily, and the head usually is laid under the breast to keep the breast from scalding. After picking, the bird is singed over an alcohol flame, the alcohol usually being burned in shallow tin plates.

Another method for removing the down is to sprinkle powdered rosin over the body of the geese and dip it into hot water, which melts the rosin so that it and the down can be rubbed off easily, leaving the body clean. Geese may also be steamed by scalding slightly and wrapping the body tightly for five minutes or longer in burlap or cloth to allow the steam to work thoroughly through the feathers. Some markets prefer dry-picked geese, while in other markets no difference is made in scalded or dry picked.

Geese are raised successfully in all parts of the United States, but are most abundant in the South and the Middle West. Slightly more than one-tenth of the farms in the United States reported geese in the census of 1910.

Mature Geese and Partly Grown Goslings Will Get Their Living From a Good Pasture So Long as the Grass Remains Green.

Practically all there are in this country are in small flocks, and few, if any, farms are devoted entirely to their raising. Fattening, however, is conducted as a special business on a large scale in the producing sections, in which case the geese are collected from the general farms, usually over a large area, and fattened for a few weeks before they are killed.

On farms where there is plenty of grass or pasture land geese can be raised successfully in small flocks. A natural supply of water is, of course, essential. The birds are very hardy, both young and old, and rarely are affected by any disease or insect pest. Grass forms the bulk of the feed, and it is doubtful whether it pays to raise them unless it is available. They are the closest known grazers. Both mature geese and partly grown goslings will get their entire living from a good pasture so long as the grass remains green. A body of water where they can swim is considered essential during the breeding season, and is a good feature the rest of the year.

MARKET UNDESIRABLE STOCK

Poultryman Should Go Over Flock and Cull Out Fowls Not Wanted for Winter.

If you have not already done so it will be well to cull out and sell off such stock as you do not intend to winter. In fact, it is generally desirable to have September and October cullings for the purpose of marketing such old and young stock as it will not pay to carry through the winter season.

LOWER TAX ON BUSINESS

Chairman Fordney to Urge 12½ Per Cent Provided by House.

Washington.—Reduction in the tax on corporation earnings from the 15 per cent flat rate in the Senate bill will be urged by Representative Fordney, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, even though it means a prospective deficit in revenues.

It is Mr. Fordney's belief that further cuts can be made in government expenditures.

No Medicinal Beer.

The United States Senate on last Friday voted, 56 to 22, for the conference report on the supplemental probibition bill, which forbids the sale of the so-called "medicinal beer." The House of Representatives had already approved the measure, and the president's signature, on Wednesday, put an end to the hopes of the thirsty for a supply of boozs by that means. What next?

Out of the Old House Into the New.

It was a big, bustling, forward-looking city on the west coast. The campaign for prohibition was going ahead with a swing which promised a dry victory. A certain citizen, opposed to prohibition, asserted loudly and repeatedly, "If this state goes dry, I won't stand it. I'll go somewhere else. I'LL MOVE OUT!" The state went dry by a good majority and later, in reply to an attempt on the part of the wets to change the law, re-asserted by a largely-increased majority its determination to be absolutely dry.

Did our friend of wet proclivities "move out?" Yes, he did. He moved his old "shack" off his lot, built a new house, and moved into it. New house, new furniture, new clothes for the family, "good eats" and happiness; and now you could not persuade our friend to "move out." Though dry, "the little old U. S. is good enough" for him. And as for his family, they think it's an annex to Heaven.—The Union Signal.

Competition Will Sober World.

Prophesying that England, France and Germany would "go dry" within the present generation, Bishop Thomas Nicholson stirred the members of the Rock River Conference, which met recently in Chicago.

"Europe drunk can never compete with the United States sober," Bishop Nicholson declared, as quoted by the press.

"You stand by your guns and make it true that the United States is dry, and we shall then have a sober England, France and Germany before our children die." The same is true of every wet nation in the world. "Not long ago I talked with one of the leaders of the dry forces," he continued, "and he told me he had heard English industrial leaders warn the people that they must choose between prohibition or industrial death, one declaring that if the United States made good in becoming dry the United Kingdom would have to do the same within twenty years or go out of business.

How Not to Take Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled, and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

Pilchard Gets 3 Years In House of Correction

The trial of John A. Pilchard, a farmer of Stockton, for the first-degree murder of Stephen H. Long of Pocomoke, superintendent of the colored schools of Worcester County and highly respected by both races, was held in Cambridge this week, the defendant claiming he could not get a fair trial in Worcester County.

Pilchard admitted the killing at the trial, but claimed he did it to save his brother's life. The testimony was entirely different from what had been previously published about the case, and the prisoner was found guilty only of manslaughter, and sentenced to three years in the House of Correction.

MODERN DAY MIRACLES

How Twentieth Century Scientists Have Rubbed the Magi's Lamp and Made the Age-old Dream of Alchemy Come True

(Told in Eight Sketches)
By JOHN RAYMOND

No. I
THE AGE OF CHEMISTRY

Within the last few years the world has been electrified by the vast strides made in the field of science by the creative chemist. Indeed, within a generation the influence exerted upon the entire fabric of our civilization from within the laboratory has been so enormous that we are prepared at last to accept the oft-repeated statement that we have passed beyond the age of machinery and have entered into the more mysterious age of chemistry.

What this new era is to bring forth in the way of scientific discovery rests upon conjecture, but certainly, the miracles performed in the last half century have been sufficient to warrant almost any expectancy.

America has heard that Germany's chemists saved her from an early disastrous defeat, both in the field and in the matter of obtaining supplies. Without the tremendous expansion of her plants for the production of nitrates and ammonia from the air by processes developed by her great chemists the war, without question, would have ended years before it did, as a result of the exhaustion of Germany's explosives, if not from the exhaustion of her food supplies because of the lack of fertilizer for her fields. So great, in fact, have been the accomplishments in the last few years that scientists now declare that a nation without applied chemistry will be "defenseless in war and laggards in peace."

Previously unheard of scientific feats have been reported from the laboratory, but because of necessity, they were performed so quietly they were robbed of their glamor and their trappings of romance while lesser achievements on the field of battle and in the council chambers of diplomats have been hailed by throngs.

Those of us who have left the classroom and the study hall far behind find it difficult, lacking technical knowledge, to comprehend this swift transition from one era to another, an amazing period when the nations of the world are making serious plans to scrap their worthless armies and navies, depending for protection entirely upon the stuffs and poisons, all from the same subtle but deadly material.

agencies developed secretly in chemical laboratories.

We who are not chemists hear strange tales these days, no less strange because they are true, of rubies and amber, ornaments of ivory, shimmering silks, colors of every hue, and exotic perfumes—once the precious cargo of desert caravans—produced from a substance as ordinary as coal tar.

Truly, chemistry has descended into the depths of the earth and extracted the secret formula of nature. The modern researcher, by constant diligence and untiring effort, has performed the mysteries which kept the alchemist of other centuries groping in the dark and branded him as one allied with the devil himself. The researcher, in finding in coal tar, not only things of beauty, but remedies for most human ills, has outdreamed the alchemist by transforming a base substance into something far more precious than gold.

From this black, sticky mass he adorns M'lady with colors rivalling nature itself in their barbaric splendor. He distils perfumes that equal the jasmine and he makes terrifying gases that one day will make war unthinkable. Thousands of articles upon which we depend, from TNT to paving blocks, from attar of roses to fertilizer, and from illumination gas to royal purple, are derived from the same substance.

As recently as 1700 a man who dared to say that he could produce a ruby from a lump of coal would have been accused of practicing the black art and doubtless would have ended his career at the stake. In three centuries we have gone far. To-day we accept these miracles but few of us know how the miracles are wrought. And yet there is no mystery.

The succeeding sketches will show how the accidental discovery of an English boy at work in a laboratory in 1850 started the development of creative chemistry, and will tell how it is possible to produce a silk purse, a bottle of perfume, the colors of the rainbow, a variety of medicines, foodstuffs and poisons, all from the same substance.

Our country's prosperity was built up by industry and thrift. Our forbears had a lust for work and accomplishment. Instead of this our youth of to-day are seeking easy ways of subsistence, when there is no such thing as an easy way except at the expense of their own and our country's future.—Theodore Vail.

RECIPES WORTH SAVING.

Those who do not enjoy a thick mayonnaise will like this salad dressing, which will keep indefinitely.

Boiled Salad Dressing.—Beat the yolks of seven eggs until thick and lemon-colored; drop three tablespoonfuls of olive oil slowly, beating continually; add one-half cupful of melted butter and continue beating; add one-half cupful of vinegar and the juice of one lemon, slowly. Cook in a double boiler until it coats the spoon. Remove from the heat and sift in the following ingredients, which have been thoroughly blended: One and one-half tablespoonfuls of mustard, one-half teaspoonful of white pepper, one-eighth teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Mix well and, when using the dressing, add whipped cream.

Potato Salad.—Boil eight medium-sized potatoes in their jackets, peel and cut in one-quarter-inch cubes; add two cucumbers, cut in the same sized cubes, one cupful of blanched and shredded almonds, two tablespoonfuls each of red and green peppers, chopped fine, with one small onion, also chopped. Serve with the above boiled dressing.

Beet Salad.—Take a pint or more of the small cooked beets, finely diced, add one pound of shelled pecans, broken in bits; serve with the boiled dressing, colored a light pink, using the beet liquor. The beets are best if marinated for several hours in a small amount of French dressing.

French Dressing.—Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a dash of cayenne to three tablespoonfuls of oil and one of vinegar; mix well before using.

Chicken Salad.—Cut cold boiled fowl into half-inch dice; add an equal quantity of tender celery, cut in pieces, one cupful of broken bits of hickory nut meats. Chop the skin of the chicken very fine and add to the salad. Mix well with a boiled dressing and garnish with hard-cooked eggs cut in eighths, and curled celery.

HOUSE REJECTS HARDING'S PLEA

Vote 201 to 173 Keeps 50% Levy as Set by Senate, 94 Republicans Joining Democrats.

PRESIDENT IS CRITICISED

Reading of His Letter to Chairman Fordney Evokes Protest from Members of Both Parties—Harding Fails to Turn Surtax Tide.

Washington.—Disregarding the expressed wish of President Harding, the House voted 201 to 173, to accept the Senate amendment to the Tax Revision bill fixing the maximum income surtax rate at 50 per cent on incomes of $200,000 or more.

Ninety-four Republicans, most of them from the Middle and Far West, joined with the practically solid Democratic minority in supporting the amendment.

Announcement of the result brought applause from both sides of the chamber, with some of the Democrats breaking into cheers.

Before the vote was taken the House listened to the reading of a letter from President Harding to Chairman Fordney, of the Ways and Means Committee, suggesting that the House and Senate compromise. The Executive said he still believed the original House rate of 32 per cent was "nearer to a just levy and the more promising one in returns to the public treasury," but that in view of the legislative situation he thought it "wholly desirable" that there be a compromise at 40 per cent.

Immediately after it became known that the President had written Mr. Fordney, spokesmen for the "insurgent" Republicans said the letter would not affect the result. They had claimed a total of ninety-three Republican votes, or one les sthan was cast for the amendment.

Among the majority members supporting the amendment were Chairman Campbell, of the Rules Committee; Representative Green, of Iowa, ranking Republican, on the Ways and Means Committee, and Chairman Haugen, of the Agriculture Committee.

This vote settled the biggest issue between the House and Senate on the Tax Revision bill.

The intervention of the President in the tax revision fight—the second since the Ways and Means Committee began drafting the measure three and a half months ago—followed a visit to the White House of Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, the Republican leader in the House. The President then summoned Chairman Fordney and Representative Longworth, of Ohio, of the Ways and Means Committee, and expressed his views on the surtax. These were supplemented by a letter to Mr. Fordney.

During the three hours' debate in the House, which was conducted under a special rule, the President was attacked for writing Mr. Fordney.

The roll call of the House gave the following ninety-four Republicans voting in favor of the Senate amendment to the tax bill settling the maximum levy at 50 per cent on income surtaxes:

Anderson, Andrews, Nebraska; Anthony, Barbour, Beck, Begg, Beeham, Bird, Boles, Brennan, Brooks, Illinois; Browne, Wisconsin; Burtness, Campbell, Kansas; Chalmers, Christopherson, Clague, Classon, Cole, Ohio; Colton, Cooper, Wisconsin; Cramton, Curry, Davis, Minnestota; Denison, Dickinson, Dowell, Evans, Faust, Foster, Frear, Fuller, Funk, Gensman, Graham, Illinois; Green, Iowa; Haugen, Hoch, Hull, James, Johnson, South Dakota; Kearns, Keller, Kelly, Pennsylvania; Ketcham, King, Kinkaid, Kleczka, Kopp, Lampert, Lawrence, Limeberger, Little, McCormick, McLaughlin, Nebraska; Maloney, Moore, Ohio; Morgan, Murphy, A. Probable German Ambassador to the United States.

It is definitely stated in German majority Socialist circles that Dr. Hermes, German food minister, will be appointed ambassador to the United States.

TWELFTH AMERICAN GOOD ROADS CONGRESS

Foremost Authorities of the World on Highway Construction Will Meet in Chicago.

Chicago.—Twenty thousand delegates, representing 48 states of the Union, 10 Canadian provinces and 5,000 American and Canadian cities, 3,000 counties, 847 good roads associations, engineering societies and automobile clubs and 834 commercial organizations and coming not only from the United States and Canada, but South America, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, the Virgin Islands and other territories, will gather in this city January 17, 18, 19 and 20 for the twelfth American good roads congress and thirteenth national good roads exposition, to be held at the Coliseum under the auspices of the American Road Builders' Association.

The program, in which the foremost authorities of the world on highway construction will participate, will cover not only all phases of the construction of concrete, asphalt, brick, macadam and gravel roads, but road contracts, taxation, bond issues, highway administration and maintenance, highway transportation, traffic regulation and safety on the highways. The entire Coliseum and Annex have already been reserved by exhibitors at the exposition, making it necessary to lease adjoining buildings in order to house the overflow. The delegates will be entertained with races and tugs of war between giant road rollers and tractors, banquets, balls, theater parties, band concerts, tours of the city and other events.

For the first time women road builders will participate, the delegates including Dr. Jennie C. Murphy, woman street commissioner of Yankton, S. D.; and Miss Eva Cressy, a woman road contractor of Everett, Mass.

STATE CAPITAL

Millions For Highways.

Annapolis.—Nearly $11,000,000—to be exact, $10,900,000—will be required for road construction and maintenance in Maryland for the two-year period beginning October 1, 1922—that is, for the State's fiscal years of 1923 and 1924. Such is the estimate by John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Federal, State and county funds will be represented in this amount. Federal funds, which will be used for construction, will of course come from Federal appropriation. They will be matched dollar for dollar with State money. County funds, to be used in construction, will also be matched on the 50-50 basis by State money.

Money for maintenance will be supplied from the receipts of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office.

For the fiscal year of 1923 the Roads Commission's requisition may thus be itemized:

Maintenance (from Motor Vehicle Commissioner's receipts)		$2,100,000
Construction:
Bond issue	$1,500,000
From budget	100,000
	$1,600,000
From counties	750,000
Federal aid	850,000
		3,200,000
Total for 1923		$5,300,000

For the fiscal year of 1924 the items will be identical, except that $2,400,000 will be asked for maintenance, making the total for the year $5,600,000, or the aggregate for the two years, $10,900,000.

In addition a bond issue for bridge construction will be asked for 1923. The amount of the proposed issue has not been decided; it will probably be for several hundred thousand dollars.

The position taken by the Roads Commission is that the net receipts from the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office—money which comes from motorists—should be devoted entirely to road maintenance and that none of it should be diverted into the State treasury to be used for other purposes.

May Tax Gas For Autos.

In a conference at Annapolis between Governor Ritchie, John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission; William Milnes Maloy chairman, and Major Ezra B. Whitman, of the Public Service Commission, and Col. E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Mr. Mackall advocated the imposition by the State of a tax of 1 cent on every gallon of gasoline used by motorists. This tax, Mr. Mackall approximated, would increase the State's revenues by about $1,000,000 a year. He figured somewhat as follows:

Three are 130,000 automobiles in the State, each averaging 10,000 miles a year, or a total of 1,300,000,000 automobile miles a year. Assuming 13 miles to the gallon of gasoline, 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline are consumed yearly, and a cent a gallon tax on this amount would be $1,000,000 a year. The proposal had been previously discussed by the heads of the three departments represented at the conference with the Governor and they all signified their approval of the idea.

Mr. Mackall said that the following States already have the tax: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Kentucky, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Georgia.

Wide Changes Proposed.

Out of discussion of budget requests before Governor Ritchie cropped up four important questions of State policy, at least three of which almost certainly will be put up to the next Legislature for decision.

These four questions are:

First, whether the State shall continue to pay the expenses of the Public Service Commission or whether the public service corporations shall be assessed for all expenses incidental to their regulation.

Second, whether the present automobile license fees, based on horsepower, shall be continued or whether they shall be supplemented and ultimately replaced by a tax on gasoline.

Third, whether the present State police force shall continue as at present constituted—that is, as deputies under the Automobile Commissioner — or whether a separate and enlarged unit, built on military lines, shall be established to take the place of the present organization.

Fourth, whether the State shall issue bonds to carry out its obligations to those counties which, under a previous administration of the State Roads Commission, did not receive the proportion of State funds due them, or whether these obligations shall be allowed to continue.

Chesterton. — Joseph Walbert, of Rock Hall, was killed by one of two racing automobiles. He was walking along the side of the road. The two racing cars, it is charged, hurried away. Charles Hadaway and Morris Jones, each driving cars, stopped and picked up Mr. Walbert and hurried him to Dr. Beall's office. The police boat was secured and arrangements were made to take him to Baltimore, but he died before the start was made. Mr. Walbert leaves five children.

"X-Rays" and Finger Prints.

The modern detective makes use of X-rays. The subject's fingers are dipped into a metallic solution and then gently wiped with a soft cloth. In this way the metal is removed from the "ridges," but allowed to remain in the "furrows" of the fingertips. When an X-ray photograph is taken, the latter show up as clear, sharp, distinct lines. As the photograph can be very greatly enlarged, the most minute peculiarities are distinctly seen.

EASY TO START "HARD TIMES"

Rumor Becomes an Endless Chain Once the Proper Impetus Has Been Given to It.

In Paris a portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine. His first small bottle finished, he was about to order more when his eye fell on a headline in the Figaro, "Hard Times Are Coming," so instead of ordering his usual second bottle he called for his check.

"Is there anything wrong with the wine?" asked the landlord.

"The wine is good, but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize," explained the artist.

"Hard times," said the landlord. "Then my wife must not order the silk dress we planned, but must take one of cotton."

"Hard times," repeated the dressmaker when the order was canceled. "This is no time to expand. I must not make the improvements I had planned in the place."

"Hard times, eh?" said the builder when the dressmaker canceled the building plans. "Then I cannot have my wife's portrait painted."

So he wrote to the artist and canceled his order.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him. On a nearby chair was the paper in which he had read of hard times two days before. He picked it up to read more closely and found it was two years old!

Candy the Newest Industry.

The tremendous increase in the number of confectionery shops, the vast displays of sweet stuff which everywhere stagger the eye, mean that candy-eating has become one of our chief national industries, Arthur H. Folwell, writes in Leslie's. "Have you laid in your winter's supply of candy?" will soon be as common a question as, "Have you laid in your winter's coal?" Candy by the ton must soon be, if it is not already, the rule, and we shall have candy bins in our cellars to which chocolates and bonbons will merrily slide down iron chutes from the candy trucks. "Send us three ton of egg and nut mixed," will be an ordinary telephone order to a confectioner. Inevitably, too, we shall read of rank extortion practiced upon the poor, who have to buy their candy by the pail.

Each of the twenty-five specialty factories of the Friedman-Shelby concern produces a particular line of shoes, but in none of them are substitutes for leather ever used. The Atlantic SHOE FOR MEN — FRIEDMAN-SHELBY BRANCH International Shoe Company Makers :: St. Louis — The Pacific SHOE FOR WOMEN

Come in and inspect our stock of Atlantic shoes. Also allow us to refer you to the many men in Berlin who have given these shoes thorough tests and who have been convinced of their wearing quality to such an extent that they are confining their purchases to this line.

Aside from the excellent quality of these shoes the outstanding feature is the price. An All-Leather shoe bearing the Friedman-Shelby guarantee, equipped with a rubber heel for $4.95 per pair.

Surely there was never a bigger bargain.

AN APOLOGY.

We feel as though an apology is due our many prospective purchasers of Men's work Shoes in view of the fact that we have had practically no Men's work Shoes for sale for about three weeks.

Demand Exceeds Supply.

The Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co's. factories are doing their utmost to supply their dealers with shoes and despite the fact that they manufacture 110,000 pairs every day they can not cope with the demand. This alone proves the popularity of the "All-Leather" line.

We are assured that every effort is being made to furnish us with the shoes on back-order and we are anticipating a large shipment very soon.

Invitations were received here for the marriage on Wednesday of Weldon Joyner and Miss Jennie Thomas, both of Rock Hall, Kent County, Md. The bridegroom is a nephew of Mrs. A. T. Chance.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Purnell, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thomas and Howard Gunby motored to Westminster, Tuesday, to spend Thanksgiving with Miss Pauline Purnell and Miss Louise Thomas, who are at school there.

The third-grade scholars of Buckingham school entertained the second-grade Tuesday morning with a play, "Snowdrops and the Seven Dwarfs." Wednesday afternoon, the fifth grade presented "Phases of Pilgrim Life," at Dirickson's Hall, for the benefit of the school library, charging ten cents admission, and realized $14, earning a $10 gift from Supt. McMasters.

The Advance, like other newspapers, requested last week that all copy should be sent in early. Notwithstanding this, a large proportion came Wednesday afternoon, when but a few hours remained to do the work aside from the holiday. As a consequence the most of it must be omitted

G. Hale Harrison has completed arrangements for the Horticultural Meeting, which will open at Berlin, Tuesday, November, 29. The attendance is sure to be very large, but there will be ample accommodations at the hotels, or if not, it is only a short distance to Ocean City. The residents of Berlin will open their homes to visitors if necessary. A good many commercial exhibits have been promised including fertilizer, packages, supplies, orchard equipment, including sprayers. The Marvel Packing Company, of Laurel, will make a display. On the whole, the meeting promises to be unusually successful.

Will exchange beautiful Florida home and grove, elegant water-front place, for good water-front home and farm in Worcester, Somerset or adjoining county.

Unequalled proposition for Gentleman's Estate, Sanitarium or Resort. Summers cooler than Maryland, winters delightful. Finest fishing. What have you to offer?

No Medicinal Beer.

The United States Senate on last Friday voted, 56 to 22, for the conference report on the supplemental prohibition bill, which forbids the sale of the so-called "medicinal beer." The House of Representatives had already approved the measure, and the president's signature, on Wednesday, put an end to the hopes of the thirsty for a supply of booze by that means. What next?

Out of the Old House Into the New.

It was a big, bustling, forward-looking city on the west coast. The campaign for prohibition was going ahead with a swing which promised a dry victory. A certain citizen, opposed to prohibition, asserted loudly and repeatedly, "If this state goes dry, I won't stand it. I'll go somewhere else. I'LL MOVE OUT!" The state went dry by a good majority and later, in reply to an attempt on the part of the wets to change the law, re-asserted by a largely-increased majority its determination to be absolutely dry.

Did our friend of wet proclivities "move out?" Yes, he did. He moved his old "shack" off his lot, built a new house, and moved into it. New house, new furniture, new clothes for the family, "good eats" and happiness; and now you could not persuade our friend to "move out." Though dry, "the little old U S. is good enough" for him. And as for his family, they think it's an annex to Heaven.—The Union Signal.

Competition Will Sober World.

Prophesying that England, France and Germany would "go dry" within the present generation, Bishop Thomas Nicholson stirred the members of the Rock River Conference, which met recently in Chicago.

"Europe drunk can never compete with the United States sober," Bishop Nicholson declared, as quoted by the press.

"You stand by your guns and make it true that the United States is dry, and we shall then have a sober England, France and Germany before our children die." The same is true of every wet nation in the world. "Not long ago I talked with one of the leaders of the dry forces," he continued, "and he told me he had heard English industrial leaders warn the people that they must choose between prohibition or industrial death, one declaring that if the United States made good in becoming dry the United Kingdom would have to do the same within twenty years or go out of business.

How Not to Take Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled, and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

Pilchard Gets 3 Years In House of Correction

The trial of John A. Pilchard, a farmer of Stockton, for the first-degree murder of Stephen H. Long, of Pocomoke, superintendent of the colored schools of Worcester County and highly respected by both races, was held in Cambridge this week, the defendant claiming he could not get a fair trial in Worcester County.

Pilchard admitted the killing at the trial, but claimed he did it to save his brother's life. The testimony was entirely different from what had been previously published about the case, and the prisoner was found guilty only of manslaughter, and sentenced to three years in the House of Correction.
